NAVAL FORCES AWAITING CALL TO ASSIST BYRD

Ready to Do Everything in Power for Rescue if Life Is Periled.

LITTLE ALARM FELT AS YET BY JAHNCKE

Norwegian Whaling Ships in Region Prepared to Render Aid.

BRITISH ALSO HAVE VESSEL STANDING BY

Experts Hope That Ice Will Break Up in Time to Allow Passage.

(Associated Press.)

The Navy is ready to do everything in its power to effect a rescue of the Byrd expedition should lives of the personnel be imperiled.

Passage of a ship through the ice-strewn seas to the explorer's encampment would depend largely on day-to-day conditions, and Weather Bureau experts are unable to make any prediction concerning these.

Capt. Clarence S. Kempff, the Navy hydrographer, said yesterday that the antarctic winter would begin on March 21, and that then new ice would be forming to make passage more difficult. If any of the four whaling vessels now in the region went to Byrd's assistance, he added, their success in reaching him would depend on winds and ocean currents.

Whaling Ships Best.

"Elements controlling the drift of the ice are as difficult to calculate as movement of the stock market," Kempff said. "If there is an early fall, with erratic temperatures and banking of the ice, passage will be difficult."

"Whaling vessels," he continued, "are more useful in withstanding battering by ice that is on the move and in being able to wait for an opportunity to get through, than in breaking through. They could crawl through if the ice were not jammed, but otherwise they would have difficulty."

Weather Bureau experts said that discussion of day-to-day changes controlling movement of the ice must be "pure speculation."

Weather Reports Lacking.

"No reports whatever are received from observation points that would assist in forecasting antarctic weather," they added, "and although we can judge from indirect reports that conditions this year are unusual, we have no accurate picture of usual conditions with which to relate the fragments of information we get."

The nearest Navy vessel is 8,000 miles from the Byrd party. Acting Secretary Jahncke said yesterday we would "do everything in our power" to meet an emergency, but that from indirect reports he believed the expedition is now subject only to delay in getting out.

Oslo, Norway, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Norwegian whaling ships in the Antarctic are ready to aid the expedition of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, locked in by ice packs in the Ross Sea, but the Norwegian Whalers Association believes that the barrier will break up as usual and permit Admiral Byrd's supply ships to get through.

Norway Ready to Aid.

The Norwegian government today informed the American Government, in reply to a request for aid from the United States Minister, that it would do all it could to assist Admiral Byrd. The Government approached the Whalers Association, which promised that if Admiral Byrd were short of provisions a whaling factory ship would be sent to the rescue.

Whalers familiar with conditions in the Antarctic believe that there is still time for the ice to break up, several large whaling factory ships

Quinn Dismissed, Lowman Asserts

Former Dry Administrator Headed Enforcement Unit Here.

(Associated Press.)

John J. Quinn, former deputy prohibition administrator of the Baltimore district, who was returned to the ranks of prohibition agents after charges had been filed at the White House against him, has been dismissed from the service, Assistant Secretary Lowman announced yesterday.

The charges against Quinn were never made public, and, after he was demoted, it was announced that he would be sent to another section of the country. His dismissal was decided upon before the transfer was made. Quinn, in his capacity as administrator at Baltimore, was in charge of the prohibition enforcement in Washington.

Bishop Anderson Ill After Heart Attack

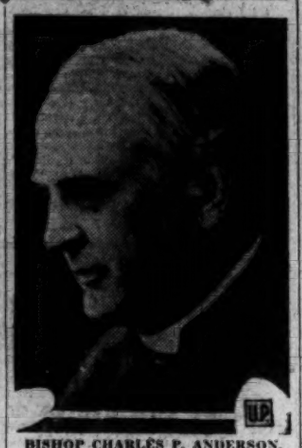
Episcopal Church Head's Condition Is Called Dangerous.



BISHOP CHARLES P. ANDERSON.

Chicago, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—The most Rev. Charles Palmerston Anderson, presiding bishop of the Episcopal Church in America, lay dangerously ill after a heart attack at his home tonight.

For some time it has been known the elderly primate's heart was not strong.

Friends suggested the increased burden of duties undertaken by Bishop Anderson after his election as head of his church last November might have proved too great a strain. He returned from an Eastern trip last week apparently in good health. Tuesday he attended a conference of the Chicago Episcopal Diocesan Council and complained of illness. His physician ordered him to bed.

Today his condition became more serious.

Bishop Anderson is 65 years old and has been in the ministry 41 years, for the last 25 years as bishop of the Chicago Diocese.

News of his illness came simultaneously with the announcement that election of a bishop-coadjutor for the diocese would be held here February 4. The bishop-coadjutor eventually would succeed Bishop Anderson as head of this diocese.

CHICAGO ASKS STATE TO AID CITY IN CRISIS

Council Appeals for Special Term of Legislature on Debt Problem.

TAX MERGER IS URGED

Chicago, Ill., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—The Chicago City Council today voted to ask Gov. Emerson to call a special session of the State Legislature in an effort to rescue the city from financial chaos.

A resolution passed by the council directs the finance committee to request that the General Assembly be called to consider "consolidation, unification and reorganization of the various local governing and taxing bodies within the City of Chicago in the interest of efficiency and economy, in so far as the same may be possible under the provisions of the present State constitution."

The finance and judiciary committees of the council were instructed to draft for consideration of the assembly legislation which will enable the collection of general taxes at or near the close of the calendar year for which such taxes are levied.

The resolution aiming at a special session, instructs the finance committee to determine and report to the council the "economies possible" in the city through consolidation of governing and taxing bodies and then ask Gov. Emerson to call a special session to pass the necessary legislation.

There are 22 taxing units in the city, the resolution explained, and told of "mounting taxes without corresponding increase in the volume and quality of public service, the continually embarrassed public finances, the dissatisfaction with local administrations, frequent clashes of the different governmental bodies" and other results which "may be traced to the confusion of executive bodies."

To avoid what he termed "a state of chaos," Mayor Thompson late today announced he would give up his fight with the city council over the "economy budget," adopted to relieve the city of a financial stringency.

More than 40,000 employes of the city, county and school board now are in arrears in pay. The mayor and his supporters said the cause of the city's financial embarrassment was the delay in the tax reassessment, which has resulted in 1928 and 1929 tax bills being unpaid. Banks have refused to loan the authorities further cash because they

MOSCOW UNADVISED OF MEXICO'S BREAK

STEP CAUSES NO WORRY

Moscow, Jan. 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Mexico may have severed diplomatic relations with Soviet Russia, as reported in press dispatches reaching here, but neither the Soviet foreign office nor the Mexican legation here are officially aware of the fact.

When asked for confirmation of the reports today the foreign office expressed surprise, declaring that it has no official information concerning the severance of relations. Russian diplomatic circles affirmed that the recent communist demonstrations before Mexican embassies in the United States, Argentina and Brazil did not constitute sufficient grounds for a break.

The Mexican minister here is now on vacation in Berlin. In his absence the first secretary of the legation said that papers of recall for himself and for the legation staff have not yet been asked from the Soviet government.

Soviet officials today expressed astonishment at Mexico's sudden action. Suspicion prevails in Moscow that the United States had something to do with it. Some circles express the belief that Washington has indirectly taken revenge for Foreign Commissar Maxime Litvinov's latest strongly-worded note to Secretary Stimson, protesting against American "interference" in the Russian-Chinese dispute over the Chinese Eastern Railway. Others consider that Mexico's step, if really taken, was purely an internal affair to crush the communistic movement in Mexico and isolate it from Moscow.

Whatever the truth may be, the Kremlin is not much worried by the situation since the present policy of the Soviet is to build up the country with its own resources and depend less upon cooperation from governments abroad. The only unfavorable aspect of the Mexican move, which is considered here as of minor importance, is that the Soviet now loses entirely its official connection with the American continent, since Mexico was the only country there maintaining diplomatic relations with the Soviet, the Argentine envoy having withdrawn from Moscow some time ago.

BOATS RESCUE 100 SUFFERERS IN FLOOD AREA

Many Families Are Still Isolated With Food and Fuel Gone.

WORK PROGRESSES IN WABASH DISTRICT

Extreme Cold Causes Fear Jams in River May Raise Overflow.

Memphis, Tenn., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Pushing through the ice-locked overflow with the aid of pickax and pole, rescue boats tonight had brought to safety upward of 100 persons from the flooded Big Lake area in northeastern Arkansas, while airplanes began a mission of mercy from the air.

Boats operating under the direction of Walter Over, field representative of the Red Cross, and J. G. Little, chairman of the Mississippi County relief committee, brought more than 50 persons, many of them women and children, to the Roseland Ditch Field base this afternoon. Overnight rescues and the number previously ferried to safety increased the total rescued to about 100.

The use of airplanes was tendered the Red Cross by the Curtiss-Wright Flying Service and the Memphis Evening-Appeal. After a telephone conference with E. A. Evans, director of disaster relief of the Red Cross, two planes were dispatched from Memphis to the flood district this afternoon.

Many Are Destitute.

Many of those brought out of the flood today were reported destitute. Many showed the effects of several days in their farm homes with meager supplies of food and fuel, but none was ill. After the issuance of emergency supplies at the Roseland base, they were taken to Dell and Manilla nearby towns, where temporary refugee quarters have been established in vacant buildings, tents and in box cars.

"Boats are being pushed into the overflowed area as rapidly as possible," Mr. Little told the Associated Press this afternoon. "Many persons still are hemmed in by the water and reports reaching us indicate that some are in dire need."

Five boats, each with a capacity of from 15 to 20 persons, scouted the overflowed sections today.

Reports from Kennett, Mo., center of relief work in Dunklin County, told of families marooned in isolated sections with food and fuel exhausted, others cut off from communication, and no word to tell of how they are faring. Six men made their way from Cagle's Island, a distance of 5 miles through the flood, today to appeal for food and fuel for 25 families waterbound in the few houses located on high ground.

Planes Used on Wabash.

Indianapolis, Ind., Jan. 24 (A.P.). Aircraft were used again today to aid the flood-bound districts along the banks of the Wabash river. Planes of the 113th Observation Squadron of the Indiana National Guard carried supplies to persons who have for days been marooned in homes made inaccessible by flood waters.

Relief has been sent to nearly every affected community. Red Cross officials said today, and there remain only a few isolated spots still in need of assistance. One of these is a small

LEATHER IS PUT ON FREE LIST IN TARIFF BATTLE

Borah Is Leader of Bloc From West Forcing Restoration.

VOTE ON PROPOSAL CARRIED BY 46 TO 28

Four-Day Fight Is Ended on Controversial Item of Bill.

HIDES, SHOES ALSO INCLUDED IN ACTION

Result Recalls Prophecy of Reed That Legislation Measure Is Doomed.

By CARLISLE BARGERON.

With the girl at the piano playing "Pony Boy," the Senate cowboys galloped off into the dust-clouded mirage yesterday after pretty much shooting up the Eastern tariff works.

They came racing in, in their high-heeled boots, and with their artillery on the hip, so to speak, demanding a higher increase on hides than either the House or the Senate finance committee offered them, and when they were refused, they shot out the lights, turned over chairs and to speak factually, put hides, leather and shoes, all back on the free list where they have been for twenty years.

As they rode away, led by the charging Senator Borah, the lament of Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, and voicing the feeling of the shoe and boot shops of all New England, was all that could be heard above the din. Senator Smoot was so disgusted that he would not participate in the fracas even to the extent of voting.

Missouri Senator Happy.

Senator Hawes, of the boot and shoe constituency of Missouri, was the happiest man in the lot. The largest boot and shoe producing center in the country, his State did not want an increase either on hides or the manufactured products of them.

Thus ended the four-day fight on one of the most controversial items in the tariff bill. It was a case of the Easterners wanting a high levy on shoes and a small one, if any, on hides, and the Westerners wanting a high one on hides and little, if any, on shoes, like the man who could eat no fat and his wife could eat no lean. In the end nobody got anything.

The House and the Senate finance committee placed a 10 per cent duty on hides and from 12½ to 30 per cent on leathers and 20 per cent on shoes.

View of Westerners.

Mr. Borah and the other Westerners contended the farmer would be better off with all three of them on the free list than to get 10 per cent on his hides and have to pay the proposed increase for his shoes.

The first clash came on the proposal of Senator Oddie, of Nevada, to make the rate on green hides 5 cents a 100 pounds, and 9 cents on dried hides, which, it was estimated, would be above 35 per cent. It was voted down, 39 to 31, with 19 Republicans, 11 Democrats and Mr. Shipstead, Farmer-Labor, voting for the increase, and 21 Republicans and 18 Democrats against it.

All of the progressives, with the exception of Mr. Blaine and Mr. La Follette, of Wisconsin, voted for the increase.

Roll Call Result.

For: Republicans — Borah, Brookhart, Capper, Frazier, Howell, Jones, McMaster, McNary, Norbeck, Norris, Nye, Oddie, Phipps, Pine, Robsion,

FRANCO-ITALIAN GAP TO FORE AS FRENCH SHY AT RATIO AIRING

Secretary of State Stimson and Foreign Minister Dino Grandi (right), head of the Italian naval conference delegation, held a conversation at London yesterday on points connected with the arms reduction discussion in progress there.

General Declaration of Absolute Naval Needs Demanded First.

POLICY WOULD FORCE ITALY TO SET FIGURE

Rome Conferees See Trap and Say They'll Stick to Parity Claim.

BRITISH ASK OTHERS TO LIST MAIN ISSUES

Stimson Expected to Reply That Order of Discussion Is Immaterial to U.S.

By JOHN L. BALDERSTON.

London, Jan. 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—There were two principal developments in the naval conference situation today:

1. Other delegations were informed informally that France declines to discuss naval ratios before a general declaration of absolute naval needs and a statement by all the powers as to the ships they propose to build have been made.

2. The British government circulated a document to the four other nations asking them to enumerate the issues which they think should be discussed at the conference, and to state in what order these should be considered, and in what manner and by what delegations in the first instance before the points of dispute involved are brought before a full session of all the delegates.

The British request that replies in writing from the five other powers be ready for a meeting of the big five called at the foreign office Monday morning.

U. S. Answer Undetermined.

The New York World News Service is unable to learn what reply the American delegation will give to this request. Secretary Stimson has gone to his country home, Stanmore. He will discuss the situation over the week-end with members of the American delegation and there is some reason to suppose that he will answer that it is immaterial to the United States in what order or in what manner issues are discussed. If this surmise is correct, the United States will at this stage seek to meet the views of the other powers as to the order and method of procedure on the ground that ultimate realities will have to be faced sometime and that all possible concessions will be made, short of sacrifice of the fundamental American aims of parity with Great Britain and an agreed short-term construction program by all the five nations.

Japan, it is learned definitely tonight, will reply that ratios should be discussed first and tonnage figures afterward.

French to Put Needs First.

France will demand that national needs and building plans be stated before categories are dealt with, and, when the time comes, will mention her intention to build 720,000 tons of auxiliary vessels, not including small submarines, unless pacts are concluded here assuring her of support against aggression.

Italy is expected to decline to discuss figures or ratios in individual categories until total global tonnage and ratios are fixed. This stand will be taken because Italy is nervous of the French thesis that the powers should be given elasticity in ratios so that a certain proportion of tonnage, allotted, say, to destroyers, could at will be turned into cruisers. The difficulty of reconciling the widely divergent viewpoints of Italy and France remains one of the highest hurdles yet to be cleared by the conference.

It will be seen that the situation is still complicated and obscure, and the French demand that naval needs in the absolute rather than ratios

PAIR SLUGS WOMAN IN ROBBING STORES

Victim Knocked Unconscious When Bandits Enter to to Loot Registre.

GROCERY SAFE IS RIFLED

Two daring holdups, one successful, the other frustrated for a reason unknown, but only after a young woman had been slugged into unconsciousness, and both undoubtedly perpetrated by the same pair of young desperadoes, occupied the attention of Headquarters Detectives James C. Collins and John Wise, not to mention the entire personnel of Nos. 2 and 9 precincts, yesterday.

While patronizing the Peoples Chain Store Cleaners at the corner of Sixth and Hamlets northeast about 7:15 o'clock, Arthur Dreher, of Capitol Heights, glanced into the store and saw a young woman huddled in a heap in the middle of the floor.

The lights in the store were on. Opening the door he found Miss Frances Stark, 26 years old, of 901 Twentieth street northwest, unconscious with a bleeding abrasion under the hair line of the forehead.

Mr. Dreher notified police headquarters and then the Casualty Hospital. Detectives Collins and Wise arrived upon the scene before the ambulance and the girl was taken to the hospital, where she regained consciousness long enough to state that she believed her assailants to be young men. She is expected to recover.

Miss Stark stated that she was in the act of closing the store for the night and when she heard the door open back of her did not even take the trouble to turn around, taking it for granted that it was a customer. She stated that one of the young men spoke to her and as she turned struck her over the head. How long she lay upon the floor before being discovered by Mr. Dreher she was unable to say.

The young robbers, however, had been foiled, for they left the place without the receipts of the store for the day. In fact, Miss Stark had removed the money, totaling $55, from the cash register and was still clutching it in her hand when she regained consciousness at the hospital.

Brandishing revolvers, two nattily attired young men, believed to be the same pair, boldly entered the Sanitary Grocery Co. store at Ninth and R streets northwest a few min-

STIMSON TO HASTEN ACTION ON CRUISERS

YARDSTICK PROBLEM UP

London, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—The American delegates to the naval conference decided today to tackle immediately the problem of cruisers—the crux of the Anglo-American naval situation. The decision to push the cruiser problem to the forefront of the conference agenda was revealed at a meeting of the delegation this morning.

This development was somewhat of a surprise, since there is apparently a general agreement among the delegation that battleships should be further limited and controlled by international agreement, it had been expected that capital ships would make the logical starting point for work, but the Americans have taken the line that cruisers are the crucial point of the Anglo-American naval differences, and that this issue should be cleared as soon as possible.

Another problem of immediate importance, to which a general approach is being made, is that of the system for measuring the strength of navies. This involves the method of global, or total, tonnage and that of measurement by categories of fighting craft. Admirals and experts have for years been disputing over the relative merits and defects of these systems, and they are at it again in London.

Italy and France prefer the so-called total tonnage system, whereby each country would be allotted the right to construct a fixed tonnage of all warships with the privilege of dividing the total among those categories or types best suited to their national needs.

For example, Italy would prefer to be free to build as many cruisers or destroyers as she thinks desirable.

The United States and Great Britain prefer a system of tonnage by categories with treaty stipulations of the amounts of tonnage assigned to cruisers, submarines and other types. However, both the United States and France have intimated willingness to employ both systems.

A compromise has been proposed under which a signatory would be permitted to transfer tonnage from one category to another, provided the transfer amount did not exceed a stated percentage and only after due

Pantages Sued for Million In Attack on Pringle Girl

Aftermath of Conviction of Magnate Seen in Latest Move.

Los Angeles, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Eunice Pringle, co-ed dancer, filed suit in superior court here today against Alexander Pantages, theater multimillionaire, asking $1,000,000 damages for the criminal attack she alleged was made upon her by the showman last August 9.

The 17-year-old girl asked damages on two counts, $500,000 for actual injury, and $500,000 for exemplary purposes.

The complaint, which was made in brief form, was filed by Hugh L. Dickson and Theodore Gottsdanker. Gottsdanker was one of the persons whom Pantages claimed Miss Pringle consulted in an effort to "blackmail" him.

The plaintiff cited the alleged attack of which Pantages was con-

Birds' Importation From Foreign Ports Barred Because of Malady.

President Hoover came to the aid of the Public Health Service in its attempt to stamp out parrot fever among humans yesterday by declaring an embargo against the importation of the bird from any foreign port.

The sickness, which science calls psittacosis, has taken at least eight lives within recent weeks, and more than a hundred other persons have been reported ill of the disease in ten States. Health officials have said that every case thus far noted has "a parrot in its background."

President Hoover issued the executive order establishing the ban after a conference with Surgeon General Cumming of the Public Health Serv-between powers be taken up first does not tend to simplify matters.

According to the general view in conference circles tonight, the French move against discussion of ratios in advance of formulation of concrete naval programs is based largely upon a desire to get the Italians to name a figure for the size of their fleet instead of merely demanding parity with France. According to the Italians, if they fell into a trap and named a high figure, the French would denounce their aggressive intentions, while if they named a low figure the French would claim that Italy's demand for parity with France is a bluff by Italy's own admission.

Whether this interpretation be true or not, the Italians believe it and loudly declare that they will name no figure, but confine themselves to their claim for equality at sea, on the land and in the air with the strongest continental power.

Private discussions between delegates occupied the whole of today. Secretary Stimson lunched with Premier Tardieu and later spent two hours with Foreign Minister Grandi. Since, however, Mr. Stimson will be in the country over the week-end and Mr. MacDonald has gone to Checquers, country home of British premiers, where he will see only the dominion delegates tomorrow and explain to them his policies, it seems unlikely that there will be important developments until Monday. The Italians remain in London and M. Tardieu has cancelled his trip to Paris.

French and British Confer.

The most important conference today was at No. 10 Downing street. The French and British delegates there took up an experts' report in which the French proposal for global tonnage limits with no restrictions as to building in categories beyond certain general limits was considered. There was no agreement, so more experts were called in and another report was ordered as soon as possible.

Later Mr. MacDonald saw the full Italian delegation, which arrived after the French had left to present Italy's objection to French suggestions.

A noncommittal communique was then issued saying that the experts' report "shows encouraging results on certain points and it was decided to invite the experts to continue their conversations."

Nerve Symptoms Develop.

There are symptoms of nerves developing already in all delegations excepting the American. Domestic critics of Mr. MacDonald are accusing him of wavering toward the French points of view and even of listening to suggestions that principles laid down in the (defunct) Anglo-French pact of 1928 to which the United States objected should be revived. Since the result of this pact would be to limit warships in which the United States is deficient and permit unlimited building of ships in categories which the United States does not want, this is unlikely on the face of it and nothing to confirm such reports can be learned.

Secretary Stimson and his colleagues remain calm and give out only cheerful comment. The American Secretary of State this morning told the press that private conferences were discussing every situation that could come up at the conference and that prolonged meetings do not represent bad news or crises; neither do they mean that work is being done unnecessarily or merely social entertainment.

Publicity Move Stirs Storm.

Mr. Stimson tried to meet the criticism that the press has been excluded from plenary sessions at St. James' Palace by offering to give up the seats of three American officials to three American press associations, if the other powers would admit their news agencies. A storm from non-agency correspondents here resulted and Mr. Stimson may not have known, though he does now, that apart from hundreds of special correspondents there are 27 full-fledged agencies representing the whole world in London while press accommodation in the conference chamber, if each of the powers give up three seats, would be fifteen at most. The point seems academic, since full reports of the plenary sessions are available, there are as yet no signs of another plenary session on the horizon, and the principal news of these conferences never develops in the full sessions.

notice of intention about one year in advance.

The immediate problem before the conference is to obtain the adhesion of Great Britain and Italy to what has become known as the Franco-American compromise. Most of the talks proceeding among the delegates involve some aspect of this problem.

Tonight Premier Tardieu of France, Ambassador Morrow, former Premier Wakatsuki and a British representative discussed it. "Things are beginning to move and we are very well satisfied with the progress made," said M. Tardieu after the meeting.

PARLTEY JAM LOOMS IN FRENCH DEMANDS

Tardieu's Bid for Absolute Security Threatens to Cause Clash.

STIMSON, GRANDI CONFER

London, Jan. 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—Chances of the London naval conference running into a jam over French demands for security have considerably increased in the past 24 hours.

Premier Andre Tardieu asks absolute security—by treaty signed and delivered and obligating its signatories to take forceful action against an aggressor as the price for reducing France's naval demands. He himself has made no bones about the French position, but the danger to the conference in going too quickly to fundamental problems has kept all the others from going deeply into the question, and so it may not play a leading role in the deliberations for another week.

The French position regarding security has, however, changed in no way since the opening of the conference, and the leading personality in the French delegation compares it with a double pulley—the more complete the others are willing to make security against war, the lower the French demands for tonnage will be.

French Attitude Explained.

As advanced by French delegates in the many private conversations which have touched on security, the French delegation is ready to sign a pact at London not to exceed the present French naval program for a short period of years. France would have a total tonnage of 800,000 tons and ask for no guarantee of security from the others either in the Mediterranean or in the North Sea and the channel. In this case, France would refuse to discuss parity with Italy, simply leaving it to Italy to build whatever fleet she liked.

But if a positive guarantee of security were negotiated here which would insure France against attack, that country would be willing to cut her naval demands along with the other participants in the conference.

M. Tardieu's ideas of security are also not elastic, it would appear, and he will want something "with teeth in it," whatever it is. Hopes have been aroused that the French premier would look favorably upon use as the opening to a pact of London of the wording of the Hoover-MacDonald joint statement of October 9—"each of our governments will direct its thoughts and influence toward securing and maintaining the peace of the world"—or perhaps somewhat stronger language, and with such a pledge would overlook the lack of "visible teeth" since the prospective treaty would bear an American signature.

No American Signature Sought.

But it would seem from what the French delegation says that it would prefer to have a binding treaty insuring and guaranteeing peace in the Mediterranean, and perhaps the Channel, with only European signatories than a larger but less explicit document with an American signature included.

British signature of such a pact, however, seems as remote as an American one, the British argument being that every effort toward limitation of armaments is in itself assurance of security and that when a London pact shall have been signed such a long step toward limitation shall have been taken that the question of security will be even less important.

British View of Project.

The British consider that the French have too much faith in locksmiths and will have to take their chances along with everybody else in the much more secure future.

This, the French answer, they will be willing to do, but, placing their needs on the basis expounded by M. Tardieu in his speeches yesterday, they argue that they must complete their present naval program to be in the same position of security that Great Britain now enjoys.

The Americans have busied themselves today on study of this problem, approaching it from one of its many angles—the Italian demand for parity with France. Secretary of State Stimson talked two hours this afternoon with Dino Grandi, Italian foreign minister, and their conversation is reported to have turned largely about the question of how to square the Italian demand for parity with "any continental power" and the French refusal to talk parity with Italy at all.

The French are not talking about this aspect of the problem at all; they are simply standing pat on their well-known position and giving their attention to the proposed compromise between limitation by global tonnage and limitation by categories.

Georges Leygues, French minister of marine, who discussed this compromise with the admiralty here this morning, is of the opinion that the conception of asliding scale can be limited in such a way as to prevent any power changing the meaning of an agreement by concentrating on battleships or submarines, as the case may be, and still leave elasticity in cruisers, destroyers and other light craft.

The views of M. Leygues and the British admiralty will be worked out for presentation at the next plenary session of the conference.

Old Country Doctor Dies.

Syracuse, N. Y., Jan. 25 (A.P.).—Dr. William H. Dwinelle, 78, an old-time country doctor, who never drove a horse or automobile to see his patients, but required them to arrange for his transportation, died today at his home in Tully.

THREAT TO PARLEY STRESSED BY ITALY

Difficulty in Agreeing With France on Parity Is Held Conference Menace.

TALKS TODAY AWAITED

London, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—The opinion was expressed in authoritative Italian circles tonight that the difficulty in reaching an understanding between France and Italy continues to be one of the danger spots in the five-power naval conference.

It was observed that Foreign Secretary Dino Grandi had felt that Italy must come forth from the conference with confirmation of her right, which she regards as already recognized at Washington, of naval parity with any other continental European power.

It was said that the Italian delegation will leave no stone unturned to convince the other powers of Italian sincerity in desiring such limitation of armaments as would insure peace and security for herself and others. They believe, however, this object can be reached only by conceding the principle of parity.

Parity Held Indispensable.

The Italian delegation therefore states that parity with any other continental European power is an indispensable condition to the signature by Italy of any agreement to which the conference may lead.

Much was expected at Italian headquarters tonight of the conversations which Signor Grandi will have tomorrow with Premier Tardieu and Foreign Minister Briand, especially since they have expressed the opinion that the present difficulties might be solved by a Mediterranean pact of nonaggression. It was intimated that if this might be interpreted as meaning that with such a pact France would be willing (me concede naval parity with Italy, soon as the latter might abandon the objections she at first had raised against the suggested pact.

When the subject was first mentioned by M. Briand, Italy replied that it seemed rather illogical to speak of a Mediterranean pact without first concluding a treaty of friendship and arbitration between the two countries which had been under discussion for nearly two years.

Italy Expects Pact to Be Signed.

It was remarked, however, in Italian quarters tonight, that the treaty negotiations now are well advanced and that a speedy conclusion might be expected.

Two main questions are the object of these negotiations. The first is the status of Italian subjects living in the French protectorate of Tunis. The second is concerned with the extension southward of the Italian North African colony of Tripoli to include the French territory of Tibesti, which, although it has an area of 15,000 square miles, is virtually uninhabited and consists of rocky hills bordering the Sahara Desert.

France thus far has refused to cede this territory, offering instead that known as the Oasis of Jeda. This has an area of 10,000 square miles and a population of 600 natives. France has insisted that the one caravan trail through it should be owned in common by herself and Italy.

CANNON HITS BUTLER FOR DRY LAW STAND

Methodist Bishop Assails College President as He Prepares for Trip.

SAILS TO AFRICA TODAY

(Associated Press.)

Preliminary to sailing for Africa tomorrow, Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, last night denounced Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, president of Columbia University, for his stand against prohibition.

Bishop Cannon will confer with Congo missionaries during his African trip. He plans to return before May.

In a formal statement, he said Dr. Butler had "rushed into the arena" with "egotistical arrogance" to denounce the recommendations of President Hoover and the Law Enforcement Commission for additional Volstead enforcement legislation. Bishop Cannon also attacked views opposing his on prohibition given by Mrs. Charles H. Sabin, of New York; Cardinal O'Connell, of Boston; Archbishop Curley, of Baltimore, and the Anti-prohibition bloc in Congress, which he termed "the noisy little wet minority."

Of Dr. Butler he said:

"What condemnation is severe enough for the president of a great university who deliberately misrepresents and perverts the attitude of patriotic congressmen who declare their intention to support the officers and men of the Coast Guard in the performance of their duty, rather than to make martyrs of smugglers and murderers?"

Railway Valuation Idea Is Presented

I.C.C. Offers Senate Group "Accounting Process" Method.

(Associated Press.)

Valuation of railroads for rate-making and recapture of excess income purposes would be simplified and made only "an accounting process," under recommendations presented by the Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday to the Senate interstate commerce committee asking amendment of the law.

The commission held the resolution of Senator Howell (Republican), Nebraska, recently introduced for the purpose of facilitating valuation processes, to be in conflict with findings of the Supreme Court on the ground that it directed the commission to follow a method which the court had found to be inconsistent with the duty imposed on the commission.

The commission was directed under the transportation act to value railroads, fix rates and recapture all above 6 per cent income that the carriers earned on their investment. In attempting to carry through this direction, it first set a value upon the small St. Louis & O'Fallon Railway. Supported by other roads, the O'Fallon contested this in the Supreme Court, and the court threw out the valuation finding on the ground that it did not consider cost of "reproduction new" of the property and was based upon original cost only.

Norway Plans to Erect Legation Building Here

Halvard H. Bachke, Minister from Norway, yesterday received information that the Norwegian government had introduced a bill in the Storthing providing money for the construction of a legation in Washington. The new building will be erected at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Thirty-fourth street northwest. Plans for the structure have not been announced.

The legation is now housed at the Wyoming apartments, Columbia road and Calvert street northwest.

MRS. WILLEBRANDT ASKED TO TESTIFY

Former U. S. Attorney May Offer Advice on Dry Unit's Transfer.

DEMING IS TO GIVE DATA

(Associated Press.)

An invitation was extended last night to Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former Assistant Attorney General, to testify Tuesday before the House expenditures committee on the Williamson bill to transfer the Prohibition Bureau from the Treasury to the Justice Department.

Chairman Williamson, of the committee, sent the invitation after the committee had overridden him by a vote of 8 to 7 on a motion by Representative Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin. Her testimony is expected by Mr. Williamson to conclude the hearings on this legislation recommended by President Hoover and the law enforcement commission.

The decision to invite Mrs. Willebrandt came after Mr. Schafer had charged that Mr. Williamson was applying the "gag rule" and "steam roller methods" in the hearings. Earlier, the committee had debated and rejected a motion of Representative Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, to broaden the hearings to inquire into all phases of prohibition enforcement.

Attacks Proposed Legislation.

During these developments, the House judiciary subcommittee considering the Christopherson bills to broaden the powers of the United States commissioners to handle petty violations of the liquor laws, heard Jesse C. Duke, a Washington lawyer, attack the proposed legislation as unconstitutional.

An explanation of the Christopherson measures, which were also recommended by the National Law Enforcement Commission to relieve the congestion in federal courts, was made in the House by Representative Stobbs (Republican), of Massachusetts, a member of the judiciary committee. He declared that there was no proposal whatever to deprive the people of their constitutional rights to a trial by a jury.

Neither of the House committees will consider the prohibition measures today, but on Monday the expenditure committee will hear E. C. Alvord, special assistant to Secretary Mellon, and W. C. Deming, president of the Civil Service Commission. The judiciary subcommittee will not meet again until late next week, when a group of New York men are to appear.

Transfer Hearings Delayed.

On the Senate side, hearings before the judiciary subcommittee on the King measure to effect the prohibition transfer have been delayed until next week.

Representative Williamson (Republican), of South Dakota, predicted much trouble in getting the transfer bill reported out of his committee before the latter part of next week. Several members of the committee have shown a dislike to certain provisions of the measure.

Prohibition Commissioner Doran revealed yesterday that authorities charged with responsibility for enforcement had an understanding with real estate boards in various cities looking toward clearing up confusion caused by padlocking procedures.

The House wet bloc will meet Monday. Representative Linthicum (Democrat), Maryland, chairman of the unofficial House committee of wets, said he would then select members of the executive committee which will hold hearings soon on bills to modify and repeal the prohibition laws with a view to drawing up a measure to present to the House judiciary committee.

Linthicum indicated that about twelve members would be appointed to the committee. Likely candidates were Representatives Britten (Republican), Illinois; Black (Democrat), and LaGuardia (Republican) both of New York, and Schafer (Republican), Wisconsin, all militant wets.

Chamber Protests Immigration Bar

Three of Its Committee Appear at Hearing of House Group.

(Associated Press.)

The weight of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States was added to the protest of the Southwest against restriction of Western Hemisphere immigration in testimony yesterday before the House immigration committee.

After Harry Chandler, publisher of the Los Angeles Times, had outlined the disadvantages he believed would result from application of a quota limitation to Mexican immigration, three members of the chamber's special committee on immigration supported his stand.

These three—Arthur S. Bent, Los Angeles public works contractor; T. Chauncey Brewer, Boston attorney, and E. G. Peterson, president of the Utah Agricultural College—were unanimous in the belief that such restrictions were not desirable.

Metcalf Denounces Navy Parley Suspicion

A vigorous warning to the people and statesmen of all Nations to withhold expressions of distrust and suspicion on the naval converence was sounded last night by Senator Jesse H. Metcalf, of Rhode Island, in an address over the National Broadcasting Co. system from Station WRC.

"World peace is not something to be bartered around a theroretical poker table," the Senator said. "The Nations can not gamble with the lives and the safety of their citizens. The only way we may assure a lasting peace is for us to throw off the narrow shackles of a single-track mind and be able to understand viewpoints of other Nations.

He was appointed to the domestic commerce division service April 1, 1925, prior to which time he was assistant editor and statistician of the Survey of Current Business.

TARIFF MAN URGES HOUSE SUPERIORITY

PARLIAMENT IS MODEL

(Associated Press.)

Revision of the United States Constitution to make the Senate subordinate to the House of Representatives was advocated yesterday before the Senate lobby committee by Arthur L. Faubel, secretary of the American Tariff League and associate professor of economics at New York University.

Elaborating his opinion, he suggested that the Senate be given the status of the English House of Lords, which holds lesser powers than those of the House of Commons. Under the United States Constitution, the two branches of Congress have equal authority.

This theory of government was advanced by the witness after he had given newspapermen a statement which said the league had spent $32,602 in advocating a protective tariff in connection with the pending tariff bill. He also had told the lobby committee that the "universal opinion has been one of disapproval" of its investigation.

Exceptions Are Made.

Questioned sharply by Senator Walsh (Democrat), Montana, concerning the statement about the committee, Prof. Faubel later said he desired to "make such exceptions as all general statements have." He excepted the investigation into the employment of Charles L. Eyanson, of the Connecticut Manufacturers Association, by Senator Bingham (Republican), Connecticut. Senator Bingham was censured by the Senate for his use of Mr. Eyanson in connection with the pending tariff bill.

Insisting that the newspapers he had read had condemned the investigation of Joseph R. Grundy, now senator from Pennsylvania, and former vice president of the Tariff League, Prof. Faubel asserted that he concurred in Senator Grundy's statement before the committee that the founders of the Constitution made a mistake.

"His other statement," Chairman Caraway said, "was that senators coming from States that were not manufacturing States should not vote on tariff matters. You concur in that?"

Explains English System.

"Yes," Prof. Faubel replied. "My explanation would be that the English system of government is probably preferable in a proposition of this kind."

"What is that?" Caraway asked.

"In which the Upper House has a very decidedly secondary acquiescing place," Prof. Raubel responded.

"Then you want the Senate to have nothing to do with legislation?"

"No, not nothing to do."

"But merely acquiescence?"

"More in that nature."

"Then why not abolish it?" Senator Caraway asked.

"Why not?" the witness replied, amid laughter from the audience.

Suspected Killers Held in Pensacola

Escaped Convicts Wanted in Jacksonville for Officer's Death.

Pensacola, Fla., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Watson Moulthrope and Roland Lalone, escaped Connecticut convicts, wanted in Jacksonville for the murder of a detective, were arrested by police here today.

Moulthrope was arrested at a dry dock where he had been working several days, Chief O'Connell said. Lalone also had been working at the dry dock on a ship, but was arrested at a house in the city where police said he went after learning that Moulthrope had been arrested.

Moulthrope told police he had not been in Jacksonville and that he and Lalone, who escaped from the Connecticut State prison with Leo Landry, who is in jail at Jacksonville, had separated before reaching Florida. Chief O'Connell said Lalone admitted being in Jacksonville on the night City Detective Willie Smith was killed and Detective Willie Jones was seriously wounded.

New York Customs Trio Dismissed on Charges

New York, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Three United States customs guards, one of whom had been with the service for more than 20 years, were dismissed today by order of the Treasury Department for dereliction of duty at the French Line pier, in North River.

Pinkerton detectives, placed on the pier by the French Line in cooperation with the Government to stop liquor smuggling from its ships, made affidavits that on September 24, while the De Grasse was in port, the three customs guards permitted men with bags on their shoulders to leave the pier without inspection.

Alma Rubens' Physician Indicted for Drug Sales

Los Angeles, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Dr. I. Jesse Citron, Beverly Hills physician, was indicted by the Federal grand jury today on 31 counts of selling narcotics to Alma Rubens, film actress.

Assistant United States Attorney William Gallagher said the indictments, which renews a true bill against the physician returned several weeks ago, places emphasis on his alleged bartering in morphine with the actress.

14 MEN IN HOSPITALS AS CAB STRIKE RAGES

Many Are Seriously Wounded in Pittsburgh Riot; Woman Trampled.

MARTIAL LAW PROPOSED

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—With fourteen men in hospitals, many seriously wounded, and twelve under arrest, Pittsburgh's taxicab drivers' strike had flared into open violence today. Taxicab company officials, who today attempted to resume service under protection of a court injunction, withdrew the cabs from the streets at 6 p. m.

The drivers are striking for increased commissions and recognition of their union.

The disorders of today, the thirteenth day of the strike, were brought to a head this afternoon in an attack by scores of alleged strikers and strike sympathizers on cabs as they moved out of the Pennsylvania station rotunda. Bricks, stones, nuts, bolts, and clubs were hurled at the cabs as pedestrians hurried to cover and the call was sounded for police reserves.

Miss Minnie Klen, 18, was taken to a hospital suffering from hysteria and an injury to her left leg after being knocked down and trampled during the rioting.

Councilman Robert Garland, at a council session today, suggested that Gov. John S. Fisher at Harrisburg be requested to dispatch State troopers to Pittsburgh to preserve order. Police superintendent Peter P. Walsh, however, declared police had the situation under control. Chief Deputy Sheriff B. V. Coffey announced 43 more special deputies tomorrow will be added to a force of 30 others already on strike duty.

This morning a group of 25 men were stoned while on their way to a cab company garage. Those arrested today were held on "suspicious person" charges.

Three Youths Arrested In Car Believed Stolen

Three youths arrested early yesterday on the Washington-Baltimore boulevard while in possession of an automobile said to have been stolen, are being held by the Maryland State police for investigation. Connecticut police have asked that the trio be held until officers from that State may bring them back to Bridgeport.

State Policeman C. E. Beaseman arrested the group near the Laurel substation. They were unable to produce an owner's license for the car. They were brought to the Ellicott City Jail. Police say they admitted stealing the machine from Bridgeport, Conn. They are Nicholas E. Dundee, of Springfield, Mass., and Phil Bimonte, 19, and Leo Celnoe, 19, both of New Haven, Conn.

MILLIONAIRE NAMED IN SLOT INDICTMENT

E. B. Jermyn, Twice Mayor of Scranton, Is Among 78 Under Graft Charge.

COURT CALLED MOCKERY

Scranton, Pa., Jan. 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.) The Lackawanna County special grand jury, investigating the trial of graft and corruption in connection with the operation of slot machines, today returned indictments against 78 persons, including some of the most prominent men of the community.

Among those indicted were Edmund B. Jermyn, multimillionaire coal operator and twice Mayor of Scranton; Gomer C. Davis, sheriff of Lackawanna County; James Henshaw, Scranton chief of police; James Arigoni, former director of public safety; William G. Payton, burgess of Dunmore; James F. Lally, burgess of Mayfield; three police chiefs, Joseph Maholic, Olyphant; John J. Burke, Dunmore and Wasco Terpack, Mayfield; two former police chiefs, Stephen Pollock, Troop, and Edward Shallock, Mayfield; Harry J. Friend, former civil service commissioner; Edward G. Miller, Nathan Green, prominent business men, and Samuel Graubart.

The latter three are alleged leaders of the slot machine rings that operated in Scranton and Lackawanna County the past four years.

Conspiracy Is Charged.

The indictments charge all with conspiring to set up and maintain slot machines.

Fifty-six storekeepers, saloonmen and business men, from all parts of the county, were indicted for maintaining gambling devices. All may go to trial the first two weeks of February.

The indictments today resulted from an investigation launched two months ago by Hon. E. C. Newcomb, president judge of Lackawanna County, and taken up January 6 by the grand jury, which has not yet completed its work. The first sensation of the investigation came several weeks ago when Edward G. Miller, confessed racketeer, told the court that he paid $3,000 per month to operate slot machines to Harry J. Friend. Miller said Friend told him the money "went to City Hall" for protection.

More Indictments Hinted.

Since the inquiry got under way Friend, Graubert and Fred Pride, who is also under indictment, disappeared and are hunted as fugitives. The county plans to offer a reward of $1,000 each for their arrest.

In making their report the grand jurors said: "Testimony taken before us revealed that slot machines were protected, bribery was common, and justice in magistrates' court practically a mockery. Money was collected from gamblers and paid over to executive officials of these various municipalities, making these executives partners with the grafters, saloonkeepers and gamblers."

Slain Man's Womenfolk See Killer's Execution

Little Rock, Ark., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—The widow, a daughter and a brother of Perry Miller, city marshal of Dewitt, Ark., who was shot to death last spring, stood in the death chamber at the State Prison here today and watched the execution of his slayer in the electric chair.

The murderer, Ben Evers, a 22-year-old Negro, passed near them as he walked unassisted to the chair. Four minutes later he was dead. Miller was slain in attempting to arrest the Negro for a minor offense.

Alleged Drug Peddler And Aid Are Sentenced

San Francisco, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Antone (Black Tony) Parmagini, alleged "king of dope peddlers," on the Pacific Coast, and his asserted aid, William Levin, were sentenced to seventeen years in Federal prison by Judge A. F. St. Sure here today. Each also was fined $24,000.

Parmagini and Levin were convicted yesterday on five counts of violating Federal narcotic acts. Attorneys for both men gave notice of intention to appeal. Authorities say Parmagini was connected at one time with the operations of Arnold Rothstein, slain New York gambler.

W. Heaps, manager of the Baltimore Association and head of the Eastern States Milk Marketing Association.

EUGENIA HOYT BUTT PLANS PLEA MONDAY

Annulment Papers Will Be Instituted on Latest Marriage Venture.

SEES FATHER AS SENATOR

Reno, Nev., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Action to annul the recent marriage of Mrs. Eugenia Bankhead Hoyt Butt to Lawrence Butt, jr., Nevada University football star, will not be instituted before Monday, her attorney announced today.

Mrs. Butt, the daughter of Representative William Bankhead, of Alabama, abruptly ended her honeymoon with the gridiron star in Honolulu and returned here yesterday to seek annulment of the marriage which was performed in Reno December 28, nine days after she obtained a divorce from Morton Hoyt.

She said she left Butt upon learning that he had not yet obtained a final decree of divorce at Los Angeles from his first wife.

"He's a real nice boy, but he should have been more careful about acquiring two wives at the same time," the second Mrs. Butt said. "I'm not mad at him and he won't get into any trouble as far as I am concerned, but I must have my marriage to him annulled."

Mrs. Butt said her husband attempted to take her off the boat by force when she left him at Honolulu, and she commented: "It was thrilling for the moment."

She plans to go to Paris after the annulment hearing. Referring to the candidacy of her father for senator, she said:

"We Bankheads have politics in Alabama sewed up and if father has decided to run for the Senate it is a mere matter of counting the votes."

BREAK IN COLD WAVE IS EXPECTED TODAY

Rising Temperature to Aid District Employes in Removing SSlush.

SEVERAL HURT IN FALLS

A break in the cold wave that has gripped the Capital for the last few days is expected today with a predicted temperature of above freezing. The clear skies and sunshine of yesterday, however, will be replaced with cloudiness.

Taking advantage of the rising temperature yesterday, employes of the District began clearing downtown streets of accumulated snow and ice along the curbs. Gasoline operated shovels were used along Pennsylvania avenue in front of the White House to load the slush into trucks.

The reflecting pool at the foot of Lincoln Memorial was again the rendezvous of ice skaters last night, but sled riding was confined to some of the park roads and suburban districts where the sun did not reach yesterday.

A temperature not below 20 degrees was predicted for last night. The mercury reached 11 degrees at 6 o'clock yesterday morning as a climax to a drop of the night before.

Skidding on an icy road while riding a bicycle, George Crampton, 16 years old, of 1011 Maple avenue, Silver Springs, Md., was seriously injured shortly after 7 o'clock yesterday morning when he fell from the machine.

He was taken to Garfield Hospital where he was reported to be suffering from severe cuts and bruises on the left side of his head. His condition was undetermined. The accident occurred at Vermont avenue near Twentieth street northwest.

Mrs. Rillis Stiles, 48 years old, of 1925 Sixteenth street northwest, received a fracture of the left wrist when she fell on ice on Sixteenth street, above Scott circle, yesterday morning. She was treated at Emergency Hospital.

Frances Tighman, 8 years old, colored, of 115 Fifteenth street northeast, was treated last night at Sibley Hospital for a laceration of the chin received when her sled struck a curb stone at Sixteenth and B streets northeast.

Man sI Convicted Of Shooting Girl

Jury Believes Sweetheart's Story of Night Ride and Plea for Life.

Brunswick, Ga., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—An eleven-man jury in Glynn County Superior Court today took the word of Miss Ottilee Johns that her sweetheart shot her through the breast as she begged for her life, and convicted 21-year-old Marvin Johnson of assault with intent to murder. The penalty was set at from two to four years imprisonment.

Miss Johns told a dramatic story of a night-long automobile ride with Johnson, during which he proposed improper relations with her and told her he was going to kill her. Johnson said the shooting was accidental.

After the shooting, Johnson took Miss Johns to a hospital, where she at first told nurses her wound had been inflicted accidentally.

The trial was heard before an eleven-man jury by consent of counsel. Another unusual feature was the fact that Johnson's attorney is under indictment for larceny in the adjoining County of Bibb. He was brought here under guard to defend his client, and now will be taken back to the Bibb County Jail at Macon to await trial.

Mayor Excoriates Hatless "Lunatics"

Wilkes-Barre Official Asks Council to Give Free Headgear to Poor.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., Jan. 24 (N.Y.W.S.).—ThNose who like to go hatless, even in winter, may find this city inhospitable should the city council pass a resolution submitted by Mayor Hart, who thinks that not to wear a hat in winter is an insult to the intelligence of "God-fearing citizens."

So Mayor Hart, admitting that he wants to stimulate the sale of hats here as well as rid the town of a "new species of lunatics," has drafted a resolution to the city council which declares that "those who insist on going hatless in winter weather be declared insane and placed behind the walls of asylums."

As a P. S. to the resolution is added, "It is O. K. to go hatless in summer. If there are persons who can not afford hats, we will tsart a collection agency in police headquarters. Owners of old hats will be asked to send them to headquarters and hatless persons may get one free."

Pair Flees Before Looting Register, but Another Store Is Held Up.

VICTIM FOUND ON FLOOR

utes before 6 o'clock last night, brushed two Negro women customers aside, held up the two employes and rifled the cash drawer of its contents.

Headquarters police, summoned a few minutes later by Herbert Early, 50 years old, of 1358 Fairmont street northwest, manager of the store, scoured the neighborhood, but were unable to find a trace of the pair.

Two colored women had just come in the store and were being waited on by Mr. Early and his assistant, Carl Walsh, 22 years old, of 55 M street northwest. Mr. Early told police, "A moment later the two robbers walked leisurely in," Mr. Early said, "and suddenly whipped out a pistol apiece, telling Walsh and me to stick 'em up. They shoved the women out of their way, emptied my pockets of the $15 I had, and when I obeyed their commands to open the cash drawer, one of the men stepped forward to take everything in the register, about $49."

Fate of McDonald Pondered by Jury

Man, Accused of Slaying of Pennsylvania Veteran, Awaits Verdict.

Louisa, Va., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Robert L. McDonald, 23, charged with murdering John Ross Marshall, Pennsylvania world war veteran, at his Louisa County home last July 19, tonight sat patiently awaiting the verdict of a jury that took the case after a three-day trial, in the Louisa Circuit Court.

Prosecution witnesses testified that McDonald was the last person seen with Marshall before the charred remains of his body were found July 20 in the ashes of his home, burned to the foundation.

Police worked on the theory that robbery was the motive and said they believed McDonald shot Marshall, dragged the body to the home and set it afire with a torch. They introduced as evidence, an alleged confession by McDonald, bearing out their contention. Specialists, after observing McDonald, said they found him to have "the feeble mind of a child 9 years of age."

DRY AGENTS' VICTIM HAD BEER, AID AVERS

Partner of Wounded Liquor Suspect Taken When He Offers His Blood.

TELLS SHOOTING DETAILS

Detroit, Mich., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—A man who offered himself for a blood transfusion in an effort to save the life of Walter Grund, 27, critically wounded by a customs border patrol inspector at Wyandottee Wednesday night, today made a statement, according to Federal authorities, that he and Grund had been attempting to land a beer cargo from the Detroit River when the latter was shot.

The blood donor, Roy Fountain, was arrested when he appeared at Wyandotte General Hospital. He was allowed to give the blood for his friend and was then taken into custody and his statement taken. Subsequently he was released.

Fountain said he and Grund had set out from LaSalle, Ontario, with a rowboat loaded with 30 cases of beer Wednesday night. Before reaching the American shore, rough going had forced them to throw eighteen cases overboard. Drawing near the dock at the foot of Maple street in Wyandotte, Fountain said he noticed two men whom he believed to be Federal officers. As he was warning Grund to head off, he said they were fired upon and Grund fell wounded. Fountain said he then took the oars and rowed to a wharf 3 miles downstream where he left Grund to summon aid. Returning he found Grund missing.

Grund still was in a critical condition tonight, hospital attendants said. Last night he regained consciousness long enough to deny that he knew any man named Fountain and to reiterate his earlier story that he and a man he did not know had been seeking a missing motorboat when he was shot.

HEBREW HOME UNIT PLEDGES CHEST AID

Aged Women Enlist to Help Campaign From Meager Saving Funds.

NOYES SOUNDS WARNING

Just as the widow gave her mite to the temple in the time of Christ, the 43 inmates of the Hebrew Home for the Aged yesterday pledged their entire savings for the past year to the Community Chest.

Most of the old folks have children, grandchildren, and, in some instances, great-grandchildren who visit them periodically and leave them pin money. It is these little personal savings, painstakingly garnered throughout the year, that they are going to turn into the Community Chest fund.

Under the direction of Maurice Maser, superintendent, a large Community Chest banner has been hung at the entrance to the home. It bears the chest slogan, "Give Once For All," written in Yiddish.

Another Warning Sounded.

Another warning that the special gifts committee must raise approximately $350,000 before Monday noon if the quota of the preliminary drive is attained was issued yesterday by Newbold Noyes, chairman. Contributions yesterday totalled $107,069.35 yesterday and brought the fund to $564,977.66.

Mr. Noyes told the committee that not only would every prospect have to be solicited but that the donations would have to amount to 20 per cent more than last year if the goal is reached.

Vice chairmen of the committee reporting for the teams follows:

Barry Mohun, $6,240; Mrs. C. C. Glover, jr., $7,750; Mrs. Charles A. Goldsmith, $8,785; William Knowles Cooper, $16,995; William J. Eynon, $37,800; Arthur Hellen, $6,420; W. W. Everett, $3,900; Mrs. Sidney F. Tallaferro, $7,810; Thomas B. Sweeney, $4, 850; Robert Fleming, $2,069.35; the executive committee, $4,070.

olice Are Enlisted.

The Metropolitan Police were enlisted in the Chest campaign yesterday at a meeting held under the supervision of Inspector William S. Shelby, presiding in the absence of Maj. Henry G. Pratt.

Harry M. Luckett, chief clerk, who has been designated as "key man" for the department, introduced Frank R. Jelleff, chairman of the group solicitation unit, and Elwood Street, director of the Chest, both of whom made short talks setting forth the needs for this year.

At the conclusion of the meeting Mr. Luckett announced he would name the commanding officer of each precinct as his assistant in the drive to solicit every member of the department.

Woman Seeks $20,000 In Auto Damage Suit

Rosa M. Hess, of Riverdale, Md., filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against Christopher Lehmkuhl, of 716 Upshur street northwest, seeking to collect $20,000 as the result of an automobile accident September 22 last near Colesville, Md.

The plaintiff, through Attorneys T. Morris Wampler and Joseph C. Turco, tells the court that the defendant drove his automobile along the left side of the road while her automobile was approaching on the same side from the opposite direction. A collision resulted, the woman claims, and alleges that as the result she was permanently injured.

Temporary Certificates Will Be Issued to Cabs

Temporary certificates will be issued by the Public Utilities Commission to all taxicabs the owners of which have made a bona fide effort to comply with the commission's new taxicab regulations prior to February 1.

Decision to issue temporary permits was reached by the commission partially as a result of the inclement weather and presence of ice on the city streets which has delayed the testing of cabs. Before issuing a certificate of operation the commission tests the brakes and meters of all cabs as well as other equipment.

Maj. Key-Smith Named Head of Alumni Club

Copper Heiress' Marriage To Realty Man Annulled

Natalie Guggenheim Under Age at Time of Rites, Court Finds.

White Plains, N. Y., Jan. 24 (A.P.)—An annulment of the runaway marriage last April of Natalie Guggenheim, 18-year-old heiress to the copper millions, and Thomas Gorman, Long Island real estate man, has been granted by Supreme Court Justice Joseph Morschauser, it was learned today.

Justice Morschauser said it was granted at a private hearing in his chambers here Tuesday night, but the papers had not been signed as yet.

The annulment was granted on the grounds that Miss Guggenheim was not 18 years old when she and Gorman eluded her parents last April 6 after several unsuccessful attempts and where married. The action was brought by Edmond A. Guggenheim, her father.

The marriage of the young copper heiress and Gorman, son of a railroad employe, created considerable stir last spring when it first became known several days after the ceremony, and shortly after, Mrs Gorman sailed for Europe with her parents leaving her husband behind.

The husband started building a house near 'Port Washington, Long Island, to which he said he would take his bride when she returned from abroad. On her return last fall, however, the annulment action was filed.

MISS NATALIE GUGGENHEIM.

The Guggenheims are said to have opposed the marriage mainly because of the difference in religion of the young couple. Gorman is a Catholic, while Miss Guggenheim subscribes to the Jewish religion.

NEGRO TRADE BOARD URGED FOR CAPITAL

Economic Situation Under Discussion by Civic Associations.

HOOVER IS PETITIONED

The Federation of Civic Associations, at a meeting last night in the board room at the District Building, was addressed by Charles M. Thomas, a member of the committee on public interest, who spoke on the economic situation of Negroes in the iDstrict of Columbia, especially the causes of present unemployment.

He recommended formation of a Negro board of trade, special church mergers in suburban communities for the purpose of conserving valuation of church sites within the city, and a reorganization of church financing to include practical aspects not now within the general financial scheme of Negro churches.

A resolution was passed deploring failure of colored men to receive appointment under the District government, particularly when vacancies occur by death or removal of a Negro worker. This resolution petitioned President Hoover to give consideration, in his selection of District Commissioners, to those who might be calculated to distribute appointments under the District government more equitably than such distribution has been made in recent years.

Other resolutions passed favored equal bus fare and car fare in the District, together with a uniform, free and universal transfer; approval of a bill now pending before Congress authorizing a merger of street railways, and adoption of a five-cent fare for schaal children between 7 and 9 o'clock and 3 and 5 o'clock. Dr. Roscoe C. Brown spoke on the Community Chest.

14 YEARS FOR HATRY IN LONDON SWINDLE

Three Accomplices in Huge Security Fraud Given Lesser Terms.

RING GOT $4,000,000

London, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Four men convicted, in the words of the justice, of "the most appalling frauds that have ever disfigured the commercial reputation of this country," today were sentenced to terms of imprisonment ranging up to fourteen years.

Clarence Hatry, leader of the group, was given the maximum sentence of fourteen years, to which were added other terms, which, however, will run concurrently. Edmund Daniels was sentenced to seven years, John G. Dixon to five years and Albert E. Tabor to three years of imprisonment.

Justice Avery, in the Old Bailey court, in passing sentence, said the frauds "had been carried out by means of wholesale forgeries of securities in trustee stocks which neither banker, nor broker, nor any member of the public would ever dream of suspecting to be otherwise than genuine."

"By means of these forged certificates," he said, "you defrauded those to whom they were issued of no less than £795,000 ($3,975,000)."

Hatry heard the first sentence of fourteen years with an impassive face and turned to descend the stairs from the dock. He was sharply recalled by the judge to listen to other sentences which he will serve concurrently. He seemed hardly able to recognize friends and exclaimed only, "How terrible! It is staggering!"

Daniels asked only to see his brother, which request was granted. Dixon collapsed on the bench. Tabor said his only care was for his wife and children.

ARMY ARCTIC FLIERS HALTED BY BLIZZARD

Lieut. Warburton Is Injured as Plane Crashes in Norht Dakota Town.

SECOND HALT BY STORM

Beach, N. Dak., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—A sudden blizzard whooping across the Dakota prairies halted the eastward flight of the Army Arctic patrol today, forcing the sixteen pursuit ships which left Miles City, Mont., this morning to land three miles east of here.

One flier, Lieut. E. K. Warburton, was cut about the head and his ship was badly damaged in landing. Lieut. Warburton's wounds required several stitches, but he was not seriously hurt.

Leaving Miles City under favorable conditions, the Arctic fliers encountered bad weather before reaching the Dakota line. Entering North Dakota in the face of a snowstorm which was driven by a 40-mile wind, the aviators decided not to attempt a flight across the badlands, approximately 40 miles of the roughest country in the State.

Beach, a town of about 1,000 inhabitants, is located on the edge of the bad lands, just east of the Montana-Dakota boundary line, and about one-fourth of the way to Bismarck, where the flier expected to make a noon stop before proceeding to Fargo for their overnight stay.

If the storm ceases, the patrol will resume the journey tomorrow. Today's forced landing was the second victory gained by the weather over the flight in North Dakota. On the westward journey most of the ships were held at Minot several days by subzero temperatures.

Woman Seeks $10,000 For Death of Father

Seeking to recover $10,000 for the death of her father, Mrs. Susie W. Eckloff, as administratrix of the estate of the late Charles Andrew Caho, filed suit yesterday in District Supreme Court against Thomas Henry Byron, of 3001 Fifteenth street northwest.

Through Attorney Alvin L. Newmyer the woman tells the court that her father was fatally injured on October 30 last, when, while crossing Rhode Island avenue northwest at Twenty-first street, he was struck by an automobile belonging to the defendant.

Wife of Broker Sues for Divorce

Cruel Treatment Charged in Complaint Filed by Mrs. Fender.

Charging her husband with intimacies with several women this month while on a trip to New York City, Mrs. Juanita M. Fender, of 1632 S street northwest, filed suit for absolute divorce yesterday from Robert C. Fender, an investment broker with offices in the Transportation Building.

The wife alleges in her complaint that her husband has been grossly cruel to her and is addicted to excessive use of intoxicants. Last Monday she had him arrested after he had threatened her, she states, and he was found guilty of intoxication.

The defendant has a net annual income of $30,000, the plaintiff alleges, and has several thousand dollars on deposit in District banks. Mrs. Fender asks that her husband be restrained from withdrawing his money. The couple were married on December 24, 1927, in Baltimore.

Harriman Admits Bias In All Liquor Trials

New York, Jan. 24 (N.Y.W.N.S.).—John Harriman, wealthy son of Oliver Harriman, declared himself emphatically on the prohibition laws today when called for jury duty in Federal Court, and as a result he may not ever have to serve as a juror there again. This is Mr. Harriman's declaration:

"No matter what the evidence, nor how strong the case, I do not feel I could render an impartial verdict."

He had been called as a prospective juror in the Government's case against Louis Weinfeld, of the Bronx, who was charged with operating an illicit still. Before lawyers for either side could question him, Mr. Harriman made his statement. Assistant United States Attorney Watts, conducting the prosecution, immediately moved to have Mr. Harriman's name stricken from the list of jurymen in the United States Courts, and Judge Bondy reserved decision.

Judge Brady is charged with the fatal stabbing of Miss Lehlia Highsmith, capitol stenographer, in front of her rooming house, November 9 last, after she returned from an automobile ride with another man.

The selection of the jury required five days. After the twelve men had been sworn, court was adjourned until Monday morning and Judge Brady was taken to the county jail. The jurors, none of whom objected to capital punishment, also were put under lock and key.

Sin May Be Ailing Tonsils, Chicago Educator Believes

"If They Offend Thee, Cut Them Out" Is Scriptural Revision Dean Matthews Offers at Lecture Course, On Theory of Psychiatry in Religion.

Chicago, Jan. 24 (A.P.)—What used to be hell now may be merely tonsilitis, Dean Shailer Matthews, of University of Chicago, said today.

Diagnosis as an essential of the ministry was launched today by the divinity school of the University of Chicago, and the paths of science and religion have been drawn closer.

The announcement of this change in the trend of ministerial training was made by Dean Matthews at the opening of a course of lectures sponsored by the school and delivered by noted exponents of the theory of psychiatry in religion.

The minister of the future, Dean Matthews said, must fill something of the place of the country doctor, or the general practitioner of medicine. He must give over "scaring people" into being good, and substitute for threats of hell fire an intelligent knowledge of what is psychologically or pathologically wrong with his parishioner-patient, so that the patient may be sent to the proper specialist for cure.

"It amounts to the establishment of clinics of specialists in connection with the ministry," Dean Matthews explained. "Religious workers can do and have done a great deal of wrong by using wrong psychological methods. It seems wrong to me, for instance, to frighten people still with threats of hell when their 'sinfulness' may only be a case of bad tonsils."

If the curing of sick souls is the purpose of religion, Dr. Matthews said, the minister must have some scientific knowledge of how sick minds and sick bodies create sickness in the soul. This theory, he said, will be adopted in the courses of the university divinity school.

The "materialist" is now old fashioned, Dr. Matthews declared, because the physicist has cast doubts upon the authenticity of matter.

Religion, he said, evolves with life, and the scriptural admonition about the offending right eye should now be "If thy tonsils offend thee, cut them out."

NEWCASTLE COUPLE RETURNED FOR TRIAL

"Blonde Gun Girl" Suspect and Companion Rushed From Train to Cells.

HELD AS POLICE KILLERS

Newcastle, Pa., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Mrs. Irene Schroeder, called "the blonde gun girl," and W. Glenn Dague, accused slayers who were captured in Arizona January 15, were returned to Newcastle tonight to face trial on charges that they killed a State highway patrolman. The pair were taken from a train at a flag-stop station on the outskirts of the city and hurried in heavily guarded automobiles to the Lawrence County Jail.

Despite the fact that authorities had tried to keep the detraining point secret, a considerable crowd had gathered at the small station by the time the train arrived. Officers rushed the woman and her companion to a waiting automobile, and before the train pulled out the car was on the way to the jail, where another crowd had assembled to seek a glimpse of the prisoners.

Mrs. Schroeder's 4-year-old son, Donnie, watched from behind a glass door as his mother ran into the jail escorted by two officers, but did not recognize his parent. "What are they doing?" the child asked an attache of the county detention home who had him in charge. It was apparent, too, that Mrs. Schroeder did not see her son.

The boy was found at the home of relatives in Bellaire, Ohio, several days after the State patrolman, Brady Paul, had been shot. The slayers of Paul were accompanied by a child, police have established, and the lad has been quoted by authorities as saying his mother "shot two cops."

Private Ernest Moore, of the State highway patrol, wounded at the time Paul was killed, was among the group of officers who returned Mrs. Schroeder and Dague to Newcastle.

BUILDING MEN SEEK MEDIATION SYSTEM

Trades Conference Moves to End Jurisdictional Disputes of Unions.

COMMITTEE IS NAMED

Tampa, Fla., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Workers and employers in the building trades joined forces here today to eliminate jurisdictional disputes from the building industry, appointing a joint subcommittee to work out details of a system of mediation.

All parties concerned declared the action one of the most important taken in years toward elimination of a trouble which has cost millions and thrown thousands out of work annually on account of jobs tied up while unions fought out their disagreements as to which craft should do a given type of work.

Committees representing both the executive council of the building trades department of the American Federation of Labor and the National Association of Building Trades Employers, at a joint executive session, appointed the subcommittee of six to consider plans for the establishment of the medium for amicable settlement.

Immediately after adjournment of the joint meeting, the subcommittee went into a brief executive session and decided to convene tomorrow for the purpose of taking action on some of the various plans which have been submitted to them. The nature of the plans will not be made public. Committee members said, pending the outcome of tomorrow's session.

Announcement of the action by the joint meeting was made shortly after the reading of a letter from President Hoover, in which he declared that "to find a method for the amicable settlement of jurisdictional disputes is, indeed, one of the most important questions in our labor relations," and added that "it is evidence of the advancing understanding of the whole of our social economic problems that this conference should take place."

All members of the committee expressed great pleasure at the outcome of today's meeting and declared themselves satisfied that jurisdictional disputes soon would be abolished. They said the action "was the most vital thing that has taken place in building trades circles in years."

BANK MAN PLEADS GUILTY TO THEFTS

Bennett, Former Teller, Is Jailed After Admitting Embezzlement.

MONEY SPENT ON RACES

George Willard Bennett, 25-year-old former teller of the Farmers & Mechanics Bank of Georgetown, was back in the District Jail last night.

Bennett during the day pleaded guilty in District Supreme Court to an indictment charging him with embezzling $104,770.24 of the bank's funds, and, while referring the case to the probation officer, Justice Peyton Gordon refused to permit him to remain at liberty.

United States Attorney Leo A. Rover told the court when Bennett pleaded guilty to the embezzlement charge that another indictment in which the prisoner is charged with making false entries in the books of the bank would be dropped when he receives sentence.

Attorneys William E. Leahy and James Reilly, counsel for Bennett, in entering their client's plea of guilt, withdrew a demurrer which previously had been filed, contesting the legality of the indictment. It was on the motion of the prisoner's attorneys that Justice Gordon referred the case to the probation officer.

Bennett was arrested last July after his peculations had been discovered by an audit of the books. At first held under $90,000 bond, he later was released under bond of $15,000, and remained at liberty until yesterday. No trace of any of the money, he is alleged to have stolen, has been found and, according to his attorneys, all of it was spent on the market and the horses.

Since Bennett's indictment, Harry V. Haynes, former president of the same bank, has been indicted and is now on bond on charges of violating the national banking laws.

Haynes is charged with making false entries and misapplying credits and the total of his alleged peculations is practically the same as that charged against Bennett. No effort, however, has been made to connect Bennett's alleged defalcations and those charged to Haynes.

Clerk Seeks Bankruptcy Relief.

Harry Siegel, a clerk, of 30 M street northwest, yesterday petitioned the District Supreme Court to adjudge him a bankrupt. Through Attorneys Lichtenberg and Lichtenberg he listed debts of $1,063.43 and assets of $150.

Merida, Yucatan, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Dr. Fred H. Albee, American orthopedic surgeon, tonight performed a bone operation upon a Yucatan workman as the first professional act of the aero-medical clinic en route through eleven Central and South American countries to carry reports of late scientific and medical developments.

The physicians en route to the Pan-American Medical Association's Panama City convention January 30, will leave here tomorrow for Belize, British Honduras, and San Lorenzo, Honduras. Their eighteen-day trip calls for 6,908 miles of travel.

Dr. Albee, consultant for bone surgery at Pan-American hospitals, New York City, demonstrated tonight his power-driven automatic machinery for making inlays, dowels and screws of living bone for use in orthopedic operations. The operation was performed in the presence of a number of Yucatan physicians and surgeons.

On the Rules of Traffic

By WILLIAM ULLMAN

The horn on an automobile is far from being an accessory that is placed there only for the convenience of the driver. It is recognized by the traffic regulations as a very necessary item of automotive equipment which is intended "as a warning of danger."

The law restricts the use of the horn to signalling purposes to indicate the approach of the car, and prohibits its unnecessary use. It follows, also, that this equipment must be kept in satisfactory operating condition so that it will be available in emergency.

Example: A driver stops in front of a friend's house and sounds his horn to announce his arrival. He has violated that part of the regulations which prohibits the use of the horn for other than necessary warning purposes.

ice. Dr. Cumming said he felt "immediate action" was necessary, but that, with the embargo, the outbreaks soon should be "well in hand."

Going into effect immediately, the restriction against the birds will be administered by quarantine officers.

Rare, and in some respects mysterious, the disease came to the attention of scientists in 1879, Dr. Cumming said, but it was comparatively unknown as a human ailment in the United States until early this month, when three members of an Annapolis, Md., family were suddenly stricken with it. Their new pet parrot, Dr. Cumming said, had died shortly before they became ill.

Since the Annapolis cases the disease has been reported in Minnesota, Ohio, Florida, California, Rhode Island, Connecticut, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania and New York.

"The most alarming aspect of the situation," Dr. Cumming said, "is that the disease has struck seriously and even fatally in such widespread areas, always directly associated with a recently imported parrot, and always difficult to treat."

Treatment for the disease, which resembles both typhoid and pneumonia, must be prescribed by a physician to meet individual cases, it was said, since it has been so rare, comparatively, that no serum or other specific treatment has been worked out.

Lisbon, Portugal, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—The importation of parrots into Portugal has been forbidden until further notice owing to the spread of psittacosis, or parrot's disease, in other parts of Europe. Though every second household in Portugal keeps a parrot, no case of psittacosis has yet been reported.

Annapolis Parrot Fever Victim Becomes Worse

Special to The Washington Post.

Annapolis, Md., Jan. 24.—Mrs. Simon S. Martin, wife of the Secretary of the Annapolis Chamber of Commerce, who is one of the three Annapolitans affected by psittacosis, or "parrot fever," three weeks ago, and who was regarded as well on the road to recovery, suffered a relapse today and her condition is reported serious by her attending physician, Dr. J. Willis Martin.

Mrs. Martin's illness is puzzling to the doctor, since her original affection was less serious than either of the other two patients, who are her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Lee W. Kalmey. Mrs. Kalmey's condition also took an adverse turn last night, when it was discovered that a slight blood clot had developed on her leg, but this has improved and the doctor's advices tonight were that she will be able to leave the hospital within the next few days. Mr. Kalmey was discharged from treatment at the hospital several days ago and now is convalescing at the home of relatives.

All three of the patients are thought to have contracted the disease from a parrot which died Christmas Day, ten days after its purchase from a Baltimore pet shop by Mr. Martin.

"I don't know anything about it. I haven't any thing to say and if I did I would not say say it. And I don't want any newspaper people up here bothering around."

"Miss Pringle alleged that the act caused damage to her name through "the wide publicity in the newspapers; that in the course of the commission of the act * * * the defendant * * * severely injured * * *; that as a result * * * the plaintiff has suffered great physical pain and mental anguish and humiliation and still continues to suffer great anguish and humiliation."

During Pantages' recent trial the girl's mother, Mrs. Lou Irene Pringle, was cross-examined regarding her asserted visit to Gottadanker's office the morning after the attack, August 10. She was asked if it were not true that she discussed with him the matter of bringing a damage suit for $500,000. She denied this saying the attorney mentioned the possibility of bringing such a suit and that she replied she was not interested in money but only in justice for her daughter.

The alleged attack occurred during a visit by the girl to Pantages' office to confer with him on a dancing skit she desired to place on his vaudeville circuit. Pantages claimed that the girl leaped on him, screaming, and that her alleged act was an attempt to blackmail, prompted by his refusal to accept her play.

Behind the Screens

With NELSON B. BELL

WHETHER you think William Fox has made the greatest pictures in the world or not; whether you deem his theaters magnificent or tawdry; whether, in your opinion, his 30 years of activity in the motion picture industry have been for the best interests of the picture business, or the worst, you have got to admire the courage that prompted the man to stride into the chambers of Judge Coleman in the Woolworth Building, New York, Thursday afternoon and declare that he would either run his business to suit himself or not run it at all. No mediation, no compromise, no relinquishment of one iota of the power he has wielded in the conduct of an enterprise that he has developed through three decades from a shoestring to a total value of some $225,000,000.

The situation must have been as dramatic as any in the more engrossing of his film plays. Twenty-five attorneys who had been in conference with Judge Coleman on matters vitally concerning the Fox creditors returned from luncheon to learn that Mr. Fox had been there and refused absolutely to accept any of the propositions they had suggested.

Of these, the major one was to supplant the present trusteeship, consisting of John E. Otterson, of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co., a $15,000,000 creditor; Harry L. Stuart, of Stuart, Halsey & Co., bankers, $12,000,000 creditor, and Mr. Fox himself, with one made up of Charles Evans Hughes, former Secretary of State and Justice of the United States Supreme Court; John W. Davis, former Democratic candidate for the Presidency, and either Mr. Stuart or a representative of the banking house of Lehman Brothers, interested in new Fox financing.

Mr. Fox declined to agree to any trusteeship not dictated by himself. He furthermore frankly said that he would take a chance on receivership and either run his business to suit himself or be forced out fighting with everything he had.

Like him or not, the man has nerve. Two hundred twenty-five million dollars are high stakes!

Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Eddy will be tendered a farewell party tonight at Le Paradis by Meyer Davis. This assuredly gala event will mark the Eddys' "au revoir" to Washington after a return visit of one week, during which it has been conclusively demonstrated that Wesley is the most cherished by the public of all the masters of ceremonies who ever have presided over stage revues in the Capital.

The Eddy success at the Palace this past week has been nothing less than phenomenal and has been a proportionately heavy drain upon his nervous energy and physical strength. Tonight's soiree will mark his first opportunity to relax without having to dash away to catch the next show.

The guest list will include the first chair ladies and gentlemen of the dramatic departments of the local press.

"The Phantom of the Opera," reissued as a sound, dialogue and color production, opened yesterday at the Rialto to the biggest morning business in the history of the reopened house. Norman Kerry, Mary Philbin and Lon Chaney all have been given voice, although Mr. Chaney not his own!

On an earlier occasion this column outlined a projected experiment of the Fox Theater to install headphones at certain seat locations for the benefit of patrons who were hard of hearing and so might not wholly comprehend the development of the talking picture's dialogue and plot. Ten sets of headphones are now being installed at the Fox for the fulfillment of the purposes previously outlined.

If these initial aids to those who have been troubled by the sound tracks prove a success and seem to supply any actual demand, more will be added until the demand is satisfied.

If you would care to know what Thomas A. Edison, whose hearing is completely gone, thinks of the talkies, read the two-column lead in the motion picture department of tomorrow's Sunday Post, on the streets tonight for a nickel.

Boy, my dog sledge! There's still snow in them gutters!

MEXICO AND THE REDS.

The Mexican government has finally discovered that it has been nursing a rattlesnake in its bosom. Communist conspiracies have been detected, having for their object the assassination of high officials and the overturning of Mexican institutions. The Mexican legation at Moscow has been ordered to leave Russia, and it is expected that the Soviet minister in Mexico will be handed his passport.

Gen. Calles entered into friendly relations with the Moscow reds before he became President of Mexico, and communism made heavy inroads in Mexico under his administration. Some of the "reforms" instituted by Calles were of communist origin. Now Mexico, like all other governments maintaining relations with Moscow, is discovering that its association with the communists has been merely a means of facilitating revolutionary conspiracies.

The Labor government in Great Britain is also making the discovery that its recognition of the Soviets has laid Great Britain and the dominions open to communist propaganda. Foreign Secretary Henderson, who negotiated the treaty with the Soviet government, is now feebly protesting against red propaganda in England.

CHICAGO'S BREAKDOWN.

If Chicago were an independent state instead of an American city, the time would be ripe for a revolution. The political clique which has control of the city has subjected Chicago to every indignity and extravagance. Now that the treasury is empty, with city employes unpaid and the police, fire protection and sanitary service threatened with disruption, some of the leading citizens are working on the problem of obtaining funds to keep the administration from complete collapse. In a city of 3,000,000 people municipal functions, such as police and fire protection, can not be suspended without disaster. Efforts are being made to sell tax anticipation bonds to large taxpayers who have been prevented from paying taxes because of the property reassessment. But even if this temporary crisis is averted, Chicago will be confronted by a debt of $290,000,000.

The politicians' excuse for the plight of the city is the inability to collect taxes last year because of the reassessment. But any comprehensive view of the case reveals this as the occasion and not the cause of Chicago's bankruptcy. For years the governments have been spending beyond their income with reckless disregard of the consequences.

The term "governments" is used advisedly, for control of public affairs in Chicago is divided among more than 20 different corporate bodies, each of which raises and spends money on its own responsibility. Authority is dissipated among the city council, the board of education, the public library board, the sanitary district of Cook County, and many others. Even if the economy budget should be adopted over the mayor's veto, the drain on taxpayers' money from these many sources will continue until Chicago completely uproots its obsolete system and replaces it with a modern city government. While the treasury is empty and the people are feeling the smart of municipal bankruptcy is the time to junk this broken-down machinery.

ST. LAWRENCE SEAWAY.

Canada is again ready to consider development of a seaway from the Great Lakes to the Atlantic by way of the St. Lawrence River. For two years the United States has been anxious to negotiate a treaty calling for joint action on this project, but delay was necessary in order to enable Canada to iron out domestic problems involved. There is now an indication that Canada is ready to proceed.

Secretary of War Hurley has appointed a new board of engineers to represent the United States. They will meet with the Canadian board to reconsider technical questions involved in the project. The previous joint board of engineers disagreed as to whether there should be one or two dams for control of navigation and development of power. Presumably the new delegates will attempt to reach an agreement on these matters so that negotiations for a treaty may be initiated.

Since the previous board made its reports Canada has been wrestling with the question of power ownership. It was uncertain whether power developed by this project would be subject to control of the dominion or the provinces. The matter was taken before the supreme court and was the subject of extensive discussions in Ottawa. If a satisfactory agreement on this issue has been reached, one of the major obstacles in the path of the St. Lawrence project has been eliminated.

Opening of a seaway from the heart of the continent to the Atlantic is an undertaking of foremost importance. The Great Lakes-St. Lawrence route is one of the most valuable potential waterways in North America. Early development of this waterway would be to the interest of both the United States and Canada.

A RAILROAD INVESTIGATION.

Among the significant developments in railroad management of recent years is the rise of the holding company, of which the Pennroad Corporation and the Allegheny Co. stand out. The Pennroad Corporation is owned and controlled exclusively by the Pennsylvania Railroad. The Allegheny Corporation is controlled by the Van Sweringen interests. These companies are sole owners of the stock of certain railroads, but do not operate the roads. They contend that they are not subject to the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission. That body has as yet made no effort to establish through the courts whether its authority over railroads extends to holding companies.

The House has adopted the Parker resolution authorizing the committee on interstate and foreign commerce to investigate the ownership and control, direct or indirect, of stock, securities or capital interests in any interstate common carrier by holding companies, investment trusts, individuals, partnerships, corporations, associations or trusts, with a view to determining the effect of such ownership and control on interstate and foreign commerce. The resolution gives the committee sweeping authority to go into the ownership and control of railways, but since the holding company has been the device invoked to circumvent the commission, it is in this connection that the forthcoming inquiry will be of major interest.

The Interstate Commerce Commission has just made public its tentative plan for the consolidation of railroads, and already dissatisfaction with the proposed layout has been evidenced by the carriers. Certain key roads around which the battle is destined to be waged are owned by holding companies. It is more than probable that the climax of the controversy will be reached when and if the Interstate Commerce Commission attempts to compel holding companies to dispose of certain properties or refuses to approve plans contemplating the retention of properties thus held.

It is not beyond the realm of possibility that railroad consolidation can not be made effective until Congress has vested authority in the Interstate Commerce Commission to enable it to compel the roads to accept its plans if they are unable to work out plans of their own. The Parker inquiry promises to be the first of several having to do with various phases of consolidation.

AN "OFFICIAL" ANTHEM.

Since the early days of the Republic the American people have sung "The Star-Spangled Banner" and responded to its patriotic sentiments without worrying about whether or not it was the "official" national anthem. This stirring hymn has become so familiar to every citizen, so closely identified with the ideals on which the Government was founded, that it is accepted as a matter of course. A few attempts have been made in recent years to substitute a new national anthem, but their failure was inevitable.

The Veterans of Foreign Wars seem to doubt the hold of "The Star-Spangled Banner" on the people. They are preparing a petition to Congress, asking that the grand old song be proclaimed the national anthem by legislative action. Presumably the veterans are desirous of preserving "The Star-Spangled Banner" as the "official" American hymn for all time. As a matter of fact, however, their movement may result in weakening the standing of the anthem.

So long as "The Star-Spangled Banner" is sung on every patriotic occasion in every hamlet and city of the United States, so long as it remains the vocal symbol of Americanism, there is no danger that it will be supplanted.

It is absurd to suppose that an act of Congress could preserve "The Star-Spangled Banner" if the people no longer recognized it as an inspiration to patriotism. The song will survive so long as it expresses the essence of American spirit. It is more effective as an expression of popular sentiment than it could ever be as a formal anthem ordained by Congress.

PRESENT-DAY BOOKS.

Educators and devotees of literature have been much concerned in recent years over the mass production of books. The great volume of sales is said to demonstrate a speeding up of intellectual progress; but it may also be taken as an attempt on the part of many people to create a presumption of culture by filling their libraries with books.

It is interesting to note the ever-increasing volume of reading material which is "consumed" in the United States. The publishing business was in a slump in 1919 and turned out only 5,741 new titles. But the recovery was so complete by 1929 that 10,187 new titles were offered to the reading public. The number of copies of books and pamphlets turned out has increased on an even larger scale. The last figure available—that for 1927—shows a production of 227,495,544 volumes. Establishments primarily engaged in the printing and publishing of books reported the value of their output for the same year to be $906,468,767, an increase of 12 per cent in two years.

A large percentage of this great volume of literature comes from current writers. At the annual meeting of the National Association of Book Publishers, Joseph W. Lippincott, retiring president, expressed regret that this avalanche of modern books is crowding out the classics. Interest in great books of the past shows signs of dying out, he says, and the "latest" book has the vogue. This is obviously a publisher's view. It would be interesting to know how many people buy and throw away the modern product and preserve their copies of the classics.

Most of the books being written in this period are chaff; but it would be idle to contend that no worth-while literature is appearing. The average may be below that of former ages because the production is so much greater. When a few decades have sifted out the real from the counterfeit of the present age, there may remain some additions to the "classics."

MEXICAN IMMIGRANTS.

There is a prospect that the House will pass a bill imposing the quota restriction upon Mexican immigrants. Pressure from labor organizations is very strong, and it is supported by influential organizations opposed to adulteration of the "American blood stream." There are about 2,000,000 Mexicans in the United States.

In several Southwestern States the economic system is based upon Mexican labor. Americans will not do the work that is performed by the Mexicans. In beet fields and on truck farms the Mexicans are good workers. They furnish most of the unskilled railroad labor. Good wages here and starvation conditions at home drive them across the border, and gradually they have displaced other classes of labor.

A sudden reversal of policy would work great hardship to employers throughout the Southwest. Nevertheless, some restrictive measure seems to be necessary in order to check the alien stream that flows northward. The Mexican immigrant is not good material for citizenship, and in some places Mexican colonies are decidedly objectionable.

One of the arguments used by employers is that Mexico would deeply resent the partial exclusion of its citizens from this country. There does not seem to be much basis for this argument, in view of the repeated statements of Mexican governmental spokesmen, who claim that their people would prefer to remain at home if they could make a livelihood. Stable conditions below the border might help to solve the problem of Mexican migration, but with high wages and steady work beckoning them to the United States it may be necessary to limit their numbers.

NANCY HANKS' BIRTHPLACE

By ANDREW PRICE,
In the National Republic.

Nancy Hanks Lincoln was born on the headwaters of the Potomac River, either in the year 1784, or in the year 1785, the daughter of Lucy Hanks and the granddaughter of Joseph Hanks. The place now is in the bounds of West Virginia.

Joseph Hanks was born in Richmond County, near the Potomac River, in the year 1725. He lived there until the year 1779, when he went to the mountains in the extreme western part of the Fairfax grant, with his wife, Anne Lee, and his nine children. He established a home in the woods on 108 acres of land and built a substantial log house, and remained there not later than 1787, when he moved to the county of Kentucky and settled in the Rough River portion where his descendants now live and their name is legion.

Senate Resolution No. 13, authorized the Governor of West Virginia to appoint a commission of five persons to look into the matter and to report to the Legislature. In this way I got license to go to work on the question. Every drop of my blood is Confederate but no man on earth can have a higher regard for Abraham Lincoln than myself. It seems to me that justice to his memory comes with better grace from the men he conquered. But this present inquiry has made me the champion of Lincoln's mother, who lived poor, and died hard, and was acquainted with grief, for I have found in her qualities that entitled her to be ranked with the noblest women of the world. A rare and radiant woman, of whom her illustrious son lived to say, that all that he was or ever hoped to be he owed to his mother.

In thought, word and deed, in natural refinement, in religion, there has never been a better woman than Nancy Hanks. This may be belated justice but it is the truth.

Of the five appointed to the commission, I was the lawyer member, and for many years I have been wrestling with the peculiar land laws of Virginia, the jig-saw puzzle of the colonies.

The clue that had been found in the records of Hampshire County was a recorded mortgage by which Joseph Hanks, in 1784, borrowed twenty pounds from Peter Putnam and gave a lien on his farm described as part of a Peter Hartman grant on Mikes Run. No metes or bounds were given. There was no deed recorded in Hampshire County that corresponded to this 108 acres either prior to it or subsequent. It occurred to me that if Peter Hartman did have a title that he could have used to place Joseph Hanks in possession, it would be a Fairfax grant. That is, a title paper from Lord Fairfax who held all the land in the Northern Neck, 22 counties, under a gift from Charles I, just before he laid his aristocratic neck upon the block to have it cut by a plebeian ax. If it was such a grant it would not be recorded in a county, but at Richmond, the capital of the colony. From those records, it was speedily discovered that Peter Hartman had located 216 acres on the head of Mikes Run by metes and bounds, and got a deed from Fairfax. The fact that 216 acres is just twice 108 acres was about the only golden thought to be gathered then in connecting it up with Joseph Hanks. Then the flash came in the watches of the night. Why not look in Hardy County, formed from Hampshire in 1785? Sure enough! There we found a deed dated in 1787, from Peter Hartman in which Peter Putnam joined, for 108 acres, one half of the 216 acres, to Jacob Doll. And another deed for the other half. It was plain to be seen that Joseph Hanks had abandoned his mortgaged land to his creditor. The Dolls have lived on the land continuously for 142 years. The sixth generation is represented there now. Two farm houses are on the tract. The present patriarch is J. W. Doll, 80 years old, active mentally and physically.

At the time that Joseph Hanks lived there, he occupied a house of hewed logs 34 feet long, which was torn down and rebuilt by J. W. Doll's father.

The finding of the Nancy Hanks commission is that the mother of Abraham Lincoln was born at Dolls Gap, near the village of Antioch, in the County of Mineral, in West Virginia.

It is not known to what extent the State of West Virginia or the Federal Government will see fit to mark the spot.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST

THE SMALL BOY RETURNS.

Thought I last night: I'll roam about
The pantry while the wife is out,
And prowl to see what I can see
That may just now appeal to me,
In need of sustenance I am.
Perhaps I'll find a jar of jam!

The pantry was in spotless trim,
The glasses touching, rim to rim;
The cups and saucers were arrayed
As cups in crockery shops displayed,
But though I hunted, left and right,
The jam I sought was not in sight.

I found the bread box tucked below
Within a cupboard white as snow,
The butter in the ice box stood;
I needed jam to make them good,
But where the jam was tucked away
I'd never heard the mother say.

Upon the topmost shelf at last
I saw the sweets for my repast,
And climbing on a kitchen chair,
I stretched to clutch the treasure there.
I reached too far, and with a slam
The floor received that jar of jam!

Who says the boy within us dies?
Again I stand with downcast eyes
And smeared with jam from head to toe,
As once I was long years ago.
"When she sees this," once more I say,
"I'll bet there'll be the deuce to pay."

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to a Flapper Daughter.

By ROBERT QUILLEN

MY DEAR LOUISE:

Yesterday afternoon I listened and wondered while you and your crowd discussed men and marriage. All of you seemed to agree that girls should marry while young and select rich husbands very little older than themselves.

Seventeen seems rather young to be discussing life partnerships, but since girls of that age will discuss such things and even go so far as to fall in love, despite the advice of their cranky elders, I want the floor for a moment to bring the discussion down to brass tacks.

The girl who marries young must choose between a man who is too old to make her happy and a man who is too poor to make her comfortable.

With the exception of the youths who inherit fortunes—and these usually are too spoiled, selfish and worthless to be decent husbands—very few men can afford to marry before they are 25 or 30.

To marry some youngster who isn't yet solidly on his feet is to be a handicap and a burden to him and ruin his career. I have seen it happen times without number. And though there are brilliant exceptions, it usually is true that a poor boy who marries too young has climbed as high as he will go.

The other alternative is equally unpleasant. The husband ten or fifteen years older than his wife may be a "good provider" and give her all the pretty things she wants to win the envy and admiration of her friends; but a man of that kind makes a very unsatisfactory husband.

He makes money by keeping busy, which means that he has very little time to attend parties with his wife; and his years give him thoughts and tastes and interests that disqualify him as a buddy for a young wife—unless she happens to be uncommonly serious and sensible.

The ideal arrangement is to wait until you are through college and then love and marry a clean and manly man who is near enough your own age to be an understanding comrade, and successful enough to win your respect and provide the comforts that make life pleasant.

Modern cynics say: "Let 'em marry young or they will pet and sneak and be immoral. It's their nature to act that way when they fall in love."

Well, that may be good advice for girls who have weak minds and no character. Get them wished off on some man quickly to "save them."

But the girl who has brains and character will save herself. Of course it is her nature to "pet" when she is in love. Also it is her nature to steal what she wants and stick a knife in those who anger her.

But civilized people suppress brute nature. That's what makes us civilized.

Wait for love. Wait for an admirable man worthy of you, and make yourself worthy of him. Save your kisses. He won't want a second-hand girl. Love,

DAD.

"Get up!"
"Go away. What's the matter?"
"You've gotta get up."
"It's the middle of the night. "Don't be silly."
"It's six o'clock."
"What of it? Lemme sleep."
"You told me you wanted to be sure to get up and hear him."
"Who?"
"The king!"
"What king?"
"King George. He's here now."
"Tell him to come back in a couple of hours."

"Lester, snap out of it! You'll miss him."
"Miss who? What's this all about? What's the trouble?"
"His Royal Highness!"
"What about him?"

"Tell him I'm not in....Ask him if he wants to leave a message....Heigh ho!"
"Lester Gilleykin, you told me last night not to let you miss King George....He's here now....Listen! ...."
"Huh....Oh!....King George.... the English King George....Why didn't you say so?"
"Hurry!"
"Okay, dear....What'll I put on? ....I can't receive him like this."
"Of course you can."
"Receive the King of England in a pair of blue pajamas with white polka-dots!"
"Hurry!....He's nearly through!"
"Have you no regard for decent conventions, woman?....Where's that robe?....Where's my black coat?.... What's become of my shoes?....My slippers?"
"You'll miss him entirely."
"Where's that damned electric button?....Look!....What a face?.... I need a shave....Why didn't you get me up sooner?"
"Please, Lester....The king is...."
"Have you so little respect for him you would let me receive him with a beard like this? ...I look like a bum!"
"There! He's finished. I warned you."
"That's all right. What did he say?"
"He said he hoped the conference would be a big success."
"Well, I could have you so. Phew!"
"Are you going back to bed?"
"Naw. Boil me two eggs . . . four minutes. . . . And no more kings before 7, I don't care who they are."

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

Grandma Looks Over House of Representatives and Is Shocked—Wets Better Stick to the Constitution.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: I am only a woman, but some folks think I know some things. I was up visiting the House of Representatives the other day. I sat in the gallery looking over what I thought to be the finest kind of men. Some of them I had helped elect, back home, because they were good, clean dry men. I was thinking of their great responsibility; how they had taken the oath of office to do their duty and protect and defend the Constitution of the United States.

Then a man got up, and I declare if he didn't abuse the Constitution something awful. He said he was wet, when the Constitution says the United States shall be forever dry, and, of course, the United States means the citizens of America. My, I just held my breath; and just as soon as he sat down another man, a little fellow—those little fellows always did remind me of a bantam rooster we used to have—he got up and the awful things he said against the Constitution were a disgrace.

My, my, what is a man worth who don't stick to his word? Nobody can depend on him. I always said I wouldn't trust any man who wouldn't keep his word; there wasn't anything to trust. Well, he said the wets were in a campaign of education, and when they got through the drys would all be wet. Did you ever? If those men break their oath of representing the people back home and standing by the Constitution, some of us will have to get busy and hunt up some real men to send up here to keep Congress from all turning out traitors.

I tell you, Mr. Editor, you had better print an editorial telling those men who took that solemn oath that they better stick by the Constitution or prepare to be treated like traitors should be treated in this day and age.

Be sure to tell them that if they don't want to retire they better straighten up and live up to their sacred oath and protect the Constitution. This is the impression of a grandma from back home that is not in her dotage, if she is old-fashioned.

Virginian Urges Senator Jones to Press His Bill Opening District Government to Nonresidents.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The bill to liberalize requirements in the matter of appointment of District Commissioners, introduced by Senator Wesley Jones, has provoked much discussion, and the usual propaganda is being given to the public. At the usual intervals the various citizens' organizations, the trade bodies, the commerce bodies are meeting and passing resolutions of condemnation. These bodies (with few exceptions) are the tentacles of the vicious ring which controls the District Government.

It was interesting to read a communication in the people's column of The Washington Post of the twenty-fourth quoting President Harrison's statement regarding the inadvisability of filling offices in one State with appointees who are residents of another State. Is it necessary to remind the writer that his quotation is not applicable to the District situation? The District of Columbia is not a State (and I thank God for it); it is the Capital of the greatest Nation on earth—a governmental city belonging to all of the people of all the States. The few people who are natives of Washington and the few others who have taken up a permanent residence here, have no more rights in the control of the affairs of the District than have the residents of nearby Virginia and Maryland or far-off Texas and California.

The people of all of the States own the United States Treasury, and the money expended here is the people's money. The people of the country have been horrified at the evidence of graft and crime in the District Government; graft and crime fostered by a vicious organization. The States will assert their right to a unified control of their National Capital, and the President must appoint, as Commissioners, men who have no connection or affiliation with the "city ring"; men who will come with clean and unbound hands to give to the people an efficient, law-abiding administration.

The President and Congress are responsible to all the people of the States for conditions in Washington. Liberalize the requirements of your measure, Senator Jones; amend your bill to make it incumbent upon the President to appoint men who retain citizenship in their home States and who have not lived in Washington more than three years.

A VIRGINIAN.

Are Panthers, Starlings and Wild Jackasses Mere Home Brew Figments?—Reminders of the Old-Time "Morning After."

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: "An Old Soldier," writing about the black panther of Northeast Washington and the old Marlboro pike has set me to thinking.

Eliminating far-fetched and frivolous guesses of the populace, our friend's home-brew solution of the panther problem seems correct.

The theory that home brew accounts for the panther scare is further substantiated in its application to other Volsteadism phenomena relating to natural history. By parity of reasoning, as we used to say, the unnatural starlings of Pennsylvania avenue may be thus accounted for, not to mention the phantom sons of wild jackasses on Capitol Hill.

In the good old days the morning after was at times a period of zoological illusion. The chief difference is that then its victims were supposed to see pink, while at present the color is "brown like a big dog," or plain black as seen by "An Old Soldier," or the bright green of a bootlegger's hat.

As was the case in pre-Volstead days, the effects of our prohibition morning after will in due time be followed by a return to reason. But, unlike the pre-Volstead boys, we will stay sober when we once get sober.

NEW WAR COMMAND BY BOLIVIA CLAIMED

Paraguay Asserts Another Offensive Order Has Been Intercepted.

LEAGUE SENDS APPEAL

(Associated Press.)

The Paraguayan government last night ordered its charge d'affaires in Washington, Pablo M. Ynsfran, to report to the State Department that a new order had been intercepted from Gen. Hans Kundt, commander of the Bolivian army, ordering preparations for a general offensive against Paraguay.

The governmental instructions said that the following message, sent in code, had been intercepted by Paraguayan forces:

"Report members of the patrol 'Trugillo.' Report who saw Private Fernandez fall. The division must be ready for a general offensive with the center of gravity in the northern center. Signed, Kundt."

Senor Ynsfran will inform the State Department today that Private Fernandez is the Bolivian soldier reported slain. The Trugillo patrol is the one which the Paraguayans contend was engaged in the action of January 16 at Isla Poi, which precipitated the present tense situation between the two countries over the question of their joint claim to the Chaco Boreal.

Geneva, Jan. 23 (A.P.).—Foreign Minister Zaleski, of Poland, chairman of the League of Nations council, has addressed an appeal to the Bolivian and the Paraguayan governments to settle peacefully their dispute over the Chaco Boreal territory.

The appeal has been forwarded to the South American government authorities by the secretary-general of the league, Sir Eric Drummond.

Gas in Doctor's Office Puts Eight in Hospital

Cleveland, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Eight persons were overcome by fumigating gas in an apartment here today and rushed to a hospital for emergency treatment. It was necessary to use artificial respiration to revive some of the victims. Police were told a doctor was using the gas of the apartment rooms where he was treating a patient and that he and the patient were the first to be overcome.

The gas then seeped into other rooms.

Colombian Officials To Leave Miami Today

Miami, Fla., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Gen. Manuel T. Quinones and Capt. Benjamin Mendez, officials of the Colombian government, will leave here by airplane tomorrow morning for Barranquilla, Colombia, proceeding from there to Bogota.

The officers are members of the Colombian Military Air Commission and arrived here today from Washington and New York.

Conservation Study Bill Passed in House

(Associated Press.)

After two days of bitter debate, the House passed the Colton bill yesterday authorizing President Hoover to appoint a commission of 25 to study the conservation of the 197,000,000 acres of public domain.

The measure now goes to the Senate, 241 to 106 votes having approved it in the House.

Federal Specialist Gets $12,000 Grain Job

Minneapolis, Minn., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—W. J. Kuhrt, of Washington, D. C., grain marketing economist of the Federal Farm Board, today was elected general manager of the Northwest Grain Association, which includes 25 representatives of cooperative grain marketing groups of Minnesota, the Dakotas and Montana.

His selection was made by the association's board of directors at a reported salary of $12,000 annually. The directors announced that the Farm Board had authorized a loan of $25,000 to finance the association during its initial organization work.

BORAH WINS BATTLE ON LEATHER DUTIES

Democrats—Ashurst, Bratton, Brousard, Connally, Dill, Fletcher, Kendrick, McKellar, Ransdell, Sheppard and Thomas of Oklahoma—11.

Farmer-Labor—Shipstead.

Against: Republicans—Baird, Bingham, Blaine, Couzens, Fess, Gillett, Goldsborough, Greene, Grundy, Hale, Hatfield, Hebert, Johnson, Keane, Keyes, La Follette, Metcalf, Moses, Townsend, Vandenberg, Walcott—21.

Democrats—Barkley, Caraway, Copeland, George, Glass, Harris, Harrison, Hawes, Heflin, Overman, Simmons, Smith, Steck, Swanson, Trammell, Tydings, Walsh of Massachusetts, and Walsh of Montana—18.

Modification Is Lost.

After this vote, Mr. Oddie modified his proposed increase to 4 and 8 cents, respectively, but this was similarly turned down, 39 to 31.

It was then Senator Borah jumped to his feet and moved to put hides, leather and shoes back on the free list and this was carried 46 to 28, 20 of the Western Republicans standing with Mr. Borah, while 25 Democrats and Mr. Shipstead gave him the easy victory.

The outcome was a surprise. Mr. Borah simply took advantage of the psychological situation and realized on the anger of the Westerners. Mr. Ashurst, of Arizona, quoting from Spencer, reflected the Western mood when he shouted that if the West was not to get its due then there would be nothing for the East.

Compromise Is Possible.

There is no thought of overturning the vote before the bill leaves the Senate. A compromise may be worked out in conference.

The significance of the vote was not considered, however, as being confined to hides, shoes and leather. It was the first time the Democrats have run out on the Western end of the coalition to such an extent as they did. They ran out on sugar, but the Progressives split badly on this themselves.

If they could gracefully do it, the Democrats would like to break away from the coalition now and kill the bill, but the Progressives are hard to get away from. It may be that yesterday's bolt was the beginning of the attempt though, and in this connection, one recalls the conviction of Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, who predicted until the very day he left for London that there would be no tariff bill.

The Listening Post

By CARLISLE BARGERON

JUST how in the name of goodness Senator Walsh, of Massachusetts, could, with a straight face, stand up in the Senate and assert that refusal to increase the tariff on shoes would destroy one of the greatest industries in this country, is beyond the comprehension.

It is one of the most diabolical, sinister and fiendish industries—that is what it is. It is gnawing at the body politic—that is what it is doing.

Why, everybody knows that shoes have been the bane of man's existence since he was run down on the plains, overpowered and made to put them on.

How anyone can speak of them with the least bit of sentiment, of affection, is wholly beyond understanding.

* * * *

THAT is not a poetic streak in Senator Walsh that makes him feel this way. It is something primitive and something that the senator has hidden from us heretofore. He is a most amiable man both on and off the Senate floor; when he appears before law students and advises them on the ethics of the law, he is a most attractive figure.

But for him to stand up and speak kindly, even beseechingly, of shoes—well, we suppose we just haven't known the real Senator Walsh.

WHY, the window displays of the stores are enough to give man keen pain, to make his feet writhe and burn. One only has to walk by and glance at this flagrant display of leather, the mass of it, the ghoulish, grinning shine of its face, and the shoes which he has broken in after tribulation and woe, begin to tighten up and pinch.

They are even worse than a dentist in this respect, in that the pain at least stops as one approaches the dentist, while shoes when they see their mates all dressed up and on display, go on their most devilish spree.

They are the enemies of freedom, shoes are; they are man's greatest grief in time of war. Those hobnailed implements of torture—brrrrh, it makes one shudder to recall them.

* * * *

PUNISHMENT of the inventor of shoes is, of course, out of the question now, but one can wonder over make-up of his head. One can visualize him, a big, hairish brute with horns and drawn eyebrows, looking lustfully out over the universe at the carefree unmanacled feet of man—and then reaching out with his giant paws and gathering them all in.

No good will come of what you did, Senator Walsh. Benson, take his house slippers from him and cast them into the bottom of the sea, where Mr. Schwab said he would willingly have all the battleships.

STATE GROUPS URGE DISTRICT VOTE PLAN

National Body of Legislature Representatives Decry Federal Usurpation.

TEXAN AGAIN PRESIDENT

Chicago, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—The National Council of State Legislatures today protested against what it referred to as the Federal Government's poaching on States rights, particularly in regard to taxation. The council also reaffirmed its indorsement of the joint congressional resolution which provides for a constitutional amendment to give the District of Columbia representation in Congress.

Separation of Federal and State tax sources and the setting aside of inheritance taxation as an exclusive State right, were among indorsements made in resolutions unanimously adopted by the council, which is an organization made up of delegates from each of the 48 State legislatures.

Another resolution "protested against the usurpation by Congress of powers not specifically granted to it," and protested against any joint or interdependent system of taxation or appropriation which in any manner affects the rights and powers of State governments.

The council also went on record favoring facilities to allow State legislators to discuss authoritatively with the proper committees in Congress any concurrent legislation.

John H. Kirby, of Texas, was reelected president of the national council. Jones H. Parker, speaker of the Missouri House, was reelected vice president, and Thomas A. Hill, former speaker of the Arkansas legislature, was renamed secretary. These three officers along with David E. Shanahan, speaker of the Illinois House, and William H. Blodgett, of Hartford, member of the Connecticut State Tax Commission, will form the council's executive committee.

Gov. Bulow Candidate For Senate Nomination

Pierre, S. Dak., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Gov. W. J. Bulow today announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for United States senator at the May primary.

Democratic leaders planned circulation of petitions to nominate Gov. Bulow to oppose Senator W. H. McMaster, Republican incumbent.

RUSSIA UNINFORMED ON MEXICAN BREAK

Union to Mexico, this afternoon said that he had not yet been advised by Moscow of what steps to take in consequence with the withdrawal of the entire staff of the Mexican Legation at Moscow. Until he does receive such advices he said he was unable to comment in any way on the situation or on his plans.

The statement by Foreign Minister Genara Estrada last night explaining the reasons for the action by Mexico has been transmitted to Moscow, but it was learned from an authoritative source that Minister Makar has not yet received any official communication from the department of foreign relations.

The Russian Minister denied that either he or the legation here was under guard or that the movements of his staff were restricted in any way.

The county commissioners, without a cent of money to spend for 20 months, bestowed what they regarded as the most practical blessing upon employes by voting to pay salaries semimonthly in tax anticipation warrants.

The same plan, it was said, would be considered by the city council, whose 35,000-odd employes are in a month or more arrears on their salaries.

RAILROAD ENGINEERS TO QUIT BANK FIELD

TAKES EFFECT MARCH 1

Cleveland, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Merger of three Cleveland banks, including the Engineers' National, was being perfected today at a meeting of the Engineers' bank directors. Completion of the deal will mean the virtual retirement of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers from active banking. Officials of the brotherhood have been prominent in affairs of the Engineers' Bank, which was closely connected with the brotherhood organization.

The other banks in the deal are the Nottingham Savings & Banking Co., and the Guaranty State Savings & Loan Co. The combine will operate under the name of the Citizens Bank & Trust Co. It is to be controlled entirely by Cleveland business interests.

Although the deal is to be accompanied by retirement of brotherhood interests in the conduct of affairs the new bank is expected to take over much of the brotherhood's banking business.

Capital and surplus of the new institution are to be $3,000,000, with total resources of $23,000,000. A securities company connected with it will have a capital of $1,000,000.

C. Stirling Smith, executive vice president of the Engineers' National Bank, is to be president of the merger.

Mr. Smith said the merger probably will take effect March 1, with the members continuing their regular business until that time as usual.

The brotherhood bank was organized in 1920 under the leadership of the late Warren Stone, with a capital of $1,000,000. It has been virtually a closed corporation, with its stock owned by the brotherhood, although it does a general banking business. Its dividends have ranged from 5 to 10 per cent per annum.

NORWEGIANS READY TO AID BYRD PARTY

passed through the pack ice into Ross Sea accompanied by several small whalers some time ago, and one of the factory ships recently left the Ross Sea again.

Consul Rasmussen, chairman of the Whaling Association, in support of the belief that the American expedition is not yet in any grave danger, said that for 50 years, since James Clark Ross sailed those waters, the ice has gone up regularly in January and February.

No Danger Until March.

Directors of five whaling expeditions now in the Antarctic at a meeting today decided they would take every step necessary to render assistance, but that in any case it would be impossible to supply aid during the next fortnight.

Capt. Wisting, a mate on the South Polar expedition of Amundsen, said that February was favorable for getting out of the ice and that Rear Admiral Byrd should be in no danger until March, unless conditions are entirely abnormal.

Manager Jahre, of the Kisanos whaling expedition, has ordered that ship to give all assistance possible.

Maj. Trygve Gram, who was a member of the Scott relief expedition in 1912, said if the Byrd vessels were not damaged the admiral had only to wait for the pack ice to go up, which it does with mathematical regularity on each full moon of the summer season. He believed that further advices from the expedition would dispel any anxiety.

British Ship Stands By.

London, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—The British whaler Southern Princess is standing by in Antarctic waters waiting for an opportunity to get in touch with the expedition of Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, said in by pack ice in the Antarctic.

The Liverpool owners of the whaler received a request from Ambassador Dawes for assistance, and immediately sent instructions to the master to take whatever action he could.

An official of the American Embassy said today that the Southern Princess was in Antarctic waters, but outside the Ross Sea, whereas Admiral Byrd is inside.

The Southern Princess is not an icebreaker and can not break through the pack ice, but she is standing by and will presumably be able to help Admiral Byrd later.

The embassy official added that there were other whalers in the neighborhood, including one or two Norwegian ships inside the Ross Sea pack ice.

Enjoy Tellez in Mexico City.

NEW CHARGES FILED IN COAST RACE RIOTS

Three Accused of Assault With Deadly Weapons in Filipino Clashes.

PROTEST MADE IN HOUSE

Watsonville, Calif., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—The Pajaro Valley, scene of numerous clashes this week between white residents and Filipino laborers, was quiet today, but official watchfulness continued, fearful of a resumption of rioting.

Three of the seven white men arrested on rioting complaints also were charged with assault with deadly weapons with intent to commit robbery. They were R. Smith, George Sias and Ted Spanger. All previously had denied that they carried firearms in their visit Wednesday night to three ranches near here seeking a Filipino, who, Smith said, had insulted a white girl of his acquaintance.

Jesus Tabaso swore to the complaints of assault against the three men. All three are in jail at Salinas, as are Ramon Davis and George Barnes, arrested with the others on the rioting charges. Charles Morrison and Fred Majors, the others charged with rioting, are at liberty on $2,000 bond each.

Wounded Man in Serious Condition.

Alfred Johnson, 22, white, who was stabbed last night during a series of street fights in San Jose, in which four Filipinos were beaten, tonight was in a serious condition.

In Washington, D. C., resident Philippines Commissioner Pedro Guevara announced on the floor of the House of Representatives he had been assured by Gov. Young of California that the situation here is well in hand, but he protested that "the lives of the 10,000 to 20,000 Filipino workers on the West Coast are in daily danger."

More Filipinos than usual were seen today on the streets of Watsonville, but reports that more had come to town from the lower San Joaquin Valley, from the Imperial Valley and elsewhere, could not be confirmed.

200 or 300 in Valley.

Official figures on the number of Filipinos in the Pajaro Valley were not available, but unofficial estimates ranged conservatively between 200 and 300.

The employment of white girls as dancing partners at the Filipino Social Club at Palm Beach, near here, caused the rioting.

The president of the club announced that the clubhouse has been closed and will remain closed until the present situation passed. The white girls still are living at the clubhouse with their matron, but the Filipino spokesman said they will not be reengaged as entertainers. Filipino or Mexican girls will be hired instead, he explained.

Jugoslavian Royal Pair Marooned in River Fog

Belgrade, Jugoslavia, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—King Alexander and Queen Marie, returning from a shooting expedition near Belisce, Slavonia, were marooned today aboard the royal yacht in a dense fog on the Danube River.

They had intended to make the trip by water to Belgrade, but had to give up the idea and wirelessed the commander of the Danube fleet, who sent an automobile to pick up the royal party. Meanwhile, the king and queen had started on foot for Novisad. They were picked up while walking along the road toward the city and brought to their destination.

patch of ground lying along the Gibson-Pike County boundary line adjacent to the Wabash River. Airplanes will be sent to this district tomorrow to drop food and clothing.

Direct communication was established during the day with the town of Griffin, Ind., in Posey County. Red Cross officials had been fearful that this town, which was virtually wiped out by a tornado in 1925, was again in dire need.

Twenty Families Unheard From.

A telegraphic message to the Associated Press from W. W. Fisher, a resident of the place, said that Red Cross workers had communication with all but 20 of the 86 families that had been isolated.

Food and fuel have been scarce, Mr. Fisher said, but all persons in distress are rapidly being cared for. The frozen backwaters have made it impossible to render relief by boat, he added.

The extreme cold weather of the last few days has created a fear that menacing ice gorges may form in the Wabash River, which has not yet fallen to normal stages. Word was received at Mount Carmel, Ill., that an ice jam was forming at Shawneetown, Ill., and causing a new flood further upstream. Government engineers were notified and requested to investigate. An ice jam in the Wabash River, near Riverton, Ind., is also receiving the attention of the engineers.

Sunday School Problems to Be Aired.

Dr. Adelaide T. Case, of Columbia University, will conduct two sessions on problems of the modern Sunday School at 7:30 o'clock on Monday and Tuesday evenings in the Chevy Chase Baptist Church. She will speak under the auspices of the local Community Council of Religious Education.

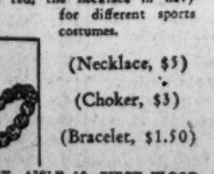
Half the Joy of Graduating Is Receiving Gifts

Dearest Betty—

You know how I have always admired those Bridge Mules at Woodward & Lothrop—so, you must know how I appreciate your gift. I adore the velvet bow on the satin.

($6)



WOMEN'S SHOES, THIRD FLOOR

Let me tell you of other gifts I received

Sports Watch

—a cord strap watch, with 15-jewel movement and stunning rolled gold plate case.

($23.50)
FINE JEWELRY, FIRST FLOOR

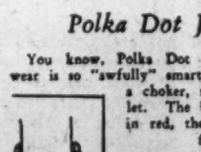
Zipper Bag

A Zipper Bag of tweed goes beautifully with my new suit. Zipper bags are so important this season, and this is the "darling" of them all.

($4.95)
LEATHER GOODS, AISLE 7, FIRST FLOOR

Polka Dot Jewelry

You know, Polka Dot Jewelry for sports wear is so "awfully" smart. Well, I received a choker, necklace and bracelet. The bracelet and choker in red, the necklace in navy for different sports costumes.



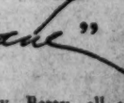
(Necklace, $5)
(Choker, $3)
(Bracelet, $1.50)
NOVELTY JEWELRY, AISLE 10, FIRST FLOOR

Pajamas

I have not space to sketch them, but—you simply must see my new pajamas—with the new polo sleeves and daring Basque striped trousers.
($30)
NEGLIGEES, THIRD FLOOR

Compact

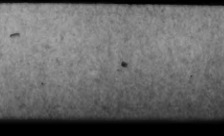
You will love this new Miro-Dena double compact, with my own monogram on top—in silver.



(Had to be ordered in advance for the monogram, $3.50)
TOILET GOODS, AISLE 16, FIRST FLOOR

Lisle Hose—Wool Socks

There are so many occasions when I can wear them together or separately. The hose of lisle are—oh, so sheer, with dainty clocks. The socks, of wool with patterned cuffs.



Each, $2 pair
HOSIERY, AISLES 19-20, FIRST FLOOR.

Polo Shirt

—thrilled me to death—for there is not a thing smarter for sports wear. I will simply live in it—for riding; for tennis with a skirt; on the beach with gob trousers this summer.

($5.95)
SPORTSWEAR, THIRD FLOOR

Then, too, there are countless other gifts—but you must see them for yourself, my dear.

Affectionately
"Jane"

P. S.—By the way, Betty, all these gifts came in Woodward & Lothrop boxes—which made them twice as nice.

Book Written In Capital Has Human Appeal

"Roma," by Mrs. Knowlton, Discloses Story of Pet Canary.

By JEAN ELIOT.

TRADE may be made to serve as handmaiden to the arts, as Mrs. Daniel Knowlton can bear witness. Having written a book, which did not appeal to the publishers as a possible best seller and not wishing to undertake the expense of publication herself, she raised funds to bring it out by selling soap. And, if you please, she was so successful in the role of salesman that the company for which she worked on commission, now wants to sign her up permanently.

As for the book, "Roma," it is now fresh from the presses and is proving to have an unexpectedly wide appeal both because of its charming content and because it is illustrated by no less a personage than Mrs. Knowlton's brother, Mr. Charles Dana Gibson. He has done charming sketches of the author and of "Roma," the heroine of the tale—a canary, whose life story is the subject matter of the little volume.

A slight thread, perhaps, to weave into an entire volume, but this canary was a character and led a most adventurous life. Some years ago when Mr. and Mrs. Knowlton were living in Rome, the canary flew into their window. Adopted at once and christened "Roma," the bird became an important member of their family and always accompanied them on their travels. It died in Bermuda and is buried there under a picturesque little monument.

Stories of "Roma," her adventures, her intelligence and her engaging ways have been woven into a pleasant tale, which is written with considerable charm of style.

Mr. and Mrs. Knowlton have been making their home in Washington for some time, Mr. Knowlton serving as chief counsel of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and live at 1529 Phelps place.

Karolik Is Heard In Capital Recital

Artist's Singing in Three Languages Applauded by Audience.

Maxim Karolik, Russian tenor, who has lived in Washington since his marriage several years ago to Miss Martha Codman, prominent in Washington and Newport society, was heard in recital yesterday at the New National Theater.

The tenor, who described himself on the program as a "singing artist," lived up to this designation vocally and dramatically. His voice is a tenor of pleasing variety, with a beautiful timbre. He sang in three languages, French, Italian and Russian, with impeccable diction. His Russian group evoked special applause. Generally speaking his ballads were in a better style than the operatic selections.

Mr. Karolik was assisted by Harriet Colston, soprano, and Nicholas Slonimsky, pianist, who contributed several solos acceptably to the program, while Miss Colston sang two duets with tenor, one from "La Tosca" and the other a duet from "Madame Butterfly."

Fifth Ave. Fashions NEW YORK

SUBTLE charm in slenderness, desired by every woman, will be found in Style No. 8226.

It's one of the new indefinite patterned tweeds in feather weight in dark purply-blue tones, an advanced spring idea of Paris.

It achieves important slimness so essential to smartness through the curved hipline and at yoke that merges into a panel at front adding even greater length to the figure.

The French V of bodice does its bit toward minimizing width, while the jabot revers contribute charmingly soft effect.

The collar is smartest ever in plain faille silk crepe, which is repeated in vestee. It is rolled into revers effect at front.

This attractive dress comes in sizes 16, 18, 20 years, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46 inches bust. In the medium size it takes but 3⅛ yards of 39-inch material, with ⅛ yard of 27-inch contrasting.

BE FAIR TO YOURSELF

Printers Support Local Business — They Should Receive the Same Support

The short-sighted policy of merchants who send their printing work to cities other than the one in which they conduct business is beyond human conjecture. This error in business judgment is doubly emphasized when the practice is indulged in by quasi-public enterprises, universities or similar institutions. There can be no excuse in the latter case, as the money expended for work of this character is drawn from public funds or contributions from members of the community. A plea might be made that a saving in cost enters the matter, but that saving, if any, would be so slight that the plea is in itself evidence of the error.

Reverse the situation. If workers in a community found it expedient to purchase supplies, clothing and other necessities in adjacent centers, what would be the effect on the local business community? Yet this course would seem just as logical as the one complained of. Spending money earned at home is one of the main factors in the industrial prosperity of a community and all its residents.

"Yes," the boy said.

"Who got the pig?"

Dare Interprets the Mode

The one-piece dress becomes a suit this season. (A Dahray design.)

Paris, Jan. 24.

WE'VE told you about the dress suits before, or suit-dresses, or whatever anybody wants to call 'em . . . but told you about them as a fashion item, and never from the extremely practical side of them that we have discovered no less than by wearing one.

Basing the idea upon the one-piece dress with its lingerie touch at the neck and wrists, these suit dresses are of fine reps, crepe or satin, with the lingerie touches.

"Lingerie touches" means collars and cuffs, vestees, gilets scarfs and kerchiefs, jabots. And although these things were for a while out of the mode, women would not leave them in oblivion long simply because they are so flattering and so ever youthful.

And the suit-dress, presenting to the world the appearance of a tailored dress with lingerie touches, is flattering and youthful as a dress, apart entirely from the fact that each succeeding change of collar and cuffs or blouse makes it a different dress entirely. And that each blouse worn with the skirt and unlined jacket makes a different suit.

• • • •

To exactly show you one of these suit-dresses, there it is illustrated for you today! The blouse is very elegantly printed chiffon; the unlined jacket snugly buttoned over the hips and the circular skirt are of crepe marocain. Every blouse worn under this suit would make a new dress of it, depending on its coloring and its style.

• • • •

A suit exactly like this takes three yards of material—plus clever cutting and sewing. You furnish the material and we'll furnish the clever cutting and sewing in next week's illustrated leaflet, for which you may send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare department of The Washington Post now!

• • • •

Little Tots' Corner.

Clever French mammas design all the clothes for little tots, and with practiced eye make designs that they know will lend themselves to lengthening at the hem and sleeves, and even to widening at the shoulders.

While this may not be exactly the reason for the mode of incrustations on Petite Adorable's coats and heavier dresses, these incrustations and "emplecementa" are a life-saver to the woman who wishes to express good taste and economy at the same time in Little Sister's clothes.

• • • •

This is the last day on which you can send a stamped, self-addressed envelope for the leaflet, which tells you how to make a princess nightgown and a princess combination, using just two and three-quarter yards of material.

• • • •

Awfully slim coats from the shoulders to just below the knees—and subtly flaring from there to a varying length—and then huge fox fur collars—that is a typical coat silhouette for spring. So if you have a defunct fox in the offing, better feed him plenty of wild oats!

• • • •

Tomorrow is the day to look in The Sunday Washington Post for the weekly Dare fashion letter. You won't regret it!

Au revoir!

WORK ON BRIDGE

BRIDGERS.

Important Notice!

Beginning Monday, January 27, Mr. Milton C. Work, the international authority, will conduct in this department for two weeks a great Home Bridge Contest. You will find it of intense interest and wonderfully instructive. It will enable you to test and increase your knowledge of Auction and Contract and contest informally with members of your household and friends. Remember the date—January 27. Challenge your friends.

LAST Saturday I referred to the Contract innovation known as the "Passing Goulash." When playing it trouble frequently occurs because one player passes either too many cards or too few, leaving one hand with fourteen cards and the other with twelve. When this happens—especially when the mistake is made by partners who have weak hands—serious dissatisfaction arises when the weak holders claim a misdeal because during the play one player has too few cards and another too many. "Passing" is not officially recognized, there are no laws to govern it, so this question as well as any other occasioned by passing must be settled by those who are making a new game for themselves.

Practically every possible variation of passing has been tried. Originally exchanges were made between adversaries as well as partners, and the number of such exchanges and the number of cards exchanged each time has been varied greatly; now the practice of exchanging with adversaries is falling into disuse and the passing is between partners only. Even yet there is no universal custom as to the number of cards exchanged. One prominent club permits an exchange in any one of four different ways, but the popular method of today is to limit the exchange to a series of three transfers; one card being passed first and after that, either next three and last two, or two on the second transfer and three on the third.

The idea is to build up freakish and abnormal hands, and sometimes almost inconceivable situations arise. In Cleveland recently at the end of the passing, one player held twelve Spades and the Ace of Hearts (the Six being the only Spade missing). Although conservative, he bid seven Spades; but he failed to make his contract because a Heart was led and the leader's partner had the missing Spade and no Hearts.

Even those who use the "passing" feature concede it to be more or less childish; but disapprove it as heartily as we may, we must admit that its popularity is increasing and that it affords an opportunity for the exercise of skill in selecting the cards for exchange.

Innumerable conventions have sprung up concerning the method of exchange and this constitutes another objection to passing because Contract is already over-conventionalized. No one can say today whether the "passing" game is a fad that soon will be discontinued as too silly for real Bridge players, or whether its popularity will force its recognition as a legal part of Contract. Should it survive, experience will produce sound conventions for passers to use.

What Today Means to You

By MARY BLAKE

Aquarius."

IF January 25 is your birthday the best hours for you on this date are from 11 a. m. to 1 p. m., from 5:30 p. m. to 6:30 p. m., and from 9 p. m. to 10 p. m. The danger period is from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m.

Astrological conditions on this date are not entirely favorable. Many obstacles stand in your way, but they are not unsurmountable. Faith and determination are all you need to win through. It is a good time for social affairs.

The child born on this January 25 will have a stable and determined character. It will be devoted to its family and an honor to its name. It will prosper slowly, but surely, and its life will be quite free from unhappiness.

You always keep your chin and your spirits up and it is seldom that the world sees you in the dumps. You may harbor worries and have an aching heart, but you are brave enough and strong enough, as a rule, to keep them secret. Your ready sense of humor and optimism are your true allies in time of trouble. You are just as ready to minimize as to magnify your misfortunes.

If you be a woman, you are well-balanced and tranquil-minded and exhibit in your personality all the truly gracious qualities of womanhood. You take a great deal of interest in social life and make a most charming and easy hostess. You are far more fitted for the duties of a wife and mother than any career. You are happier in a home than anywhere else. Your love nature is strongly developed.

If you be a man, it is doubtful if you will ever be really in love with any one, although you are not a woman hater. You rather look upon women as mere dolls to be flattered and cajoled, but not to be taken seriously. You take your duties to heart, and you regard a business achievement as far greater importance than any achievement in the lists of love.

Successful People Born January 25.

1. William Colgate—soap manufacturer.
2. James E. Murdock—actor.
3. Robert Burns—poet.
4. Charles Curtis—U. S. Senator.
5. Thomas W. Palmer—senator and president of Columbia Exposition Commission.
6. William C. De Witt—lawyer, drafted complete charter for greater New York.

Wives of Tomorrow

"An Irresponsible."

DEAR Miss McDonald: I have tried to solve my problem, but always end by wondering whether I am right or a spineless creature, so am coming to you for advice. I am married to a man of good family and wealth, and have two children, 9 months and 2 years. My husband has tired of married life and wants a divorce so he can "enjoy his youth," as he puts it. He brags about his popularity, which is all very true. I won't consent to a divorce. Am I right? His family seem to feel that I should free him at once. If it weren't for the children I would, but what of these children we have? He is well fixed, but if we divorce now it is either I go to my parents and let them worry themselves the rest of their days or take an apartment and support the children, while he has a carefree life and spends money that belongs to us on other women. He claims he would give one of the children to his sister and one to his mother. Has he any such right? I would do anything rather than give up my babies. I hate to feel I am married to a man who does not care for me, but then again I can't see what to do that would be fair to the children. Please help me. I will do whatever you say is wisest for all concerned regardless of my own feelings. He does just as he pleases anyway, so I have really no husband. But I feel responsible for the babies and their future. ELSIE.

This man is one of the hordes of irresponsibles for which this age of ours should blush for shame. They are numbered in the thousands; they appear normal, but in reality they rank somewhere between the human and the brute. They appear to be the product of their environment, plus such heredity as is indicated by the attitude of a family that believes a man should be permitted to produce offspring and then give them away as if they were pedigree pups.

Your husband can not give you children away. See a good lawyer and if your husband's people are willing to make a suitable settlement on the children in order that this moron may be free to cause a little more trouble in the world, then consent to a divorce. Otherwise stand your ground and see to it that there are no more children to complicate your affairs and increase the sum total of human misery. Men like your husband should be on Government farms and not at large establishing families here and there only to divide them. The offspring of such men need the most careful training and usually receive none whatever which accounts for crime waves. See a lawyer and follow his advice, remembering that such an irresponsible himself, the offspring of irresponsibles, will evade alimony and should be made to provide for his children's future through a settlement and not through alimony.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

SCARLET FEVER.

THE medical section of the League of Nations has recently issued a world-wide study of scarlet fever. This shows that the disease prevails everywhere, so far as we can judge by reports. It certainly prevails in all those parts of the world where there are physicians trained well enough to know scarlet fever when they meet it. It is more prevalent and more deadly in colder climates than it is in warmer ones. It is becoming less important all the time, because it is becoming milder.

In preventing it from spreading, the best procedure is a well-maintained isolation. It is spread by the secretions of the mouth and nose. It can be spread by objects as well as by people. Many epidemics have been proved to have been spread by the use of infected raw milk. Ice cream and various forms of ices seem especially prone to spread it. One epidemic was due to a batch of infected lobster salad. Foods lead all other objects in the spread of the disease.

It is spread by carriers and especially convalescent carriers. A convalescent carrier is a person who has had the disease within, say, two months. Chronic carriers who are free from nose and throat trouble are not prone to spread it.

The proper length of a quarantine period for scarlet fever is at least 40 days. Health officers have tried to shorten this period since the disease has become so mild and since so many cases are well within three or four days after taking antitoxin, but no safe way has been found. Cases of scarlet fever should be cared for either in hospitals or in homes where there are no children.

The vaccine to prevent the disease is still on trial. It has proved its value for use in hospitals, homes, asylums and schools. Antitoxin as a curative agent is well established.

FLOOR WAX.

(Bureau of Standards, Department of Commerce.)

While floors are very frequently varnished and look very well when newly treated, varnished floors are hard to keep in good condition. A waxed floor, on the other hand, may be kept in good condition indefinitely with a moderate amount of care. In fact, a properly cared for waxed floor improves with age, which is more than can be said for any other floor finish.

The following formula furnishes a very good floor wax:

| | Parts by weight |
|---|---|
| Carnauba wax | 2 |
| Ceresin | 9 |
| Turpentine | 3 |
| Gasoline (sp. gr. 0.725) | 12 |

The waxes are melted by heating in a vessel of hot water, and the turpentine and gasoline are then added and the mixture cooled as rapidly as possible, while vigorously stirring to produce a smooth creamy wax.

EASTERN AND TECH QUINTETS WIN IN SERIES GAMES

Concord Club In Baltimore Contest

Meets Locut Rangers Tomorrow in Cup Soccer Game.

Wash. S. C., Protest of Last Week's Defeat Is Denied.

By RICHARD S. TENNYSON.

THE Concord Soccer Club will attempt to do tomorrow what three other local clubs have failed in thus far this season, that is, to defeat the Locust Point Rangers of Baltimore, in a National Cup tie game. As has been the case in three previous efforts, the Washington representative has been drawn to play in Baltimore tomorrow. The Rangers have already defeated Silver Spring, 11 to 0; Fashion Shop, 4 to 0, and Washington Soccer Club, 9 to 0.

This is the third round of the cup play, and as a consequence the Concord Club had the privilege of requesting a neutral referee. Henry B. Hess, secretary of the Maryland Association, readily granted this and ordered a referee from Philadelphia to handle the contest Sunday.

Manager Krehemelmeyer, of the Concord Club, was urged to ask for a neutral official by those who felt that the Washington Soccer Club had not been dealt with fairly by the Monumental City referee last Sunday, when the unheard-of number of seven penalty kicks were reported to have been awarded the home team.

Protest Denied by Officials.

On the strength of this and the condition of the field, Manager Eddie Bruce protested the game, but yesterday he received word from headquarters that his protest had not been upheld and that the game should stand as played. Aside from disallowing the protest, national officials have threatened to suspend several of the W. S. C. players unless acceptable explanations are made for their actions before January 31.

In the communication to Bruce, John MacEwen, secretary of the national committee, stated that the referee was at all times the sole judge as to whether the playing field was in condition or not and that the Baltimore official was of the opinion that it was, and his decision must necessarily be final.

In reference to the W. S. C. players MacEwen states that the referee, Albert Gordon, reported that he was forced to order G. Faulds and H. Bryden from the field for misconduct. MacEwen states that unless these alleged offenders write statements explaining their actions or making whatever defense they desire that the committee will proceed to act in the matter."

Tomorrow's Schedule Undecided.

Last night local officials were undecided as to whether the two cup games postponed from last Sunday would be played tomorrow or not as after an inspection of the fields but little hope was expressed that they could be used.

The scheduled games are British United vs. Gaithersburg at Silver Spring, and Gaelic-Americans vs. Rockville at the Monument Grounds. If possible the referees who have been assigned to these matches will make a decision this afternoon so that the teams will not make a useless trip to the playing grounds.

Chicago Boat Show Listed April 25-May 3

New York, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—To enable other sections of the country to view the exhibits now on display at the motor boat show in the Grand Central Palace, the National Association of Engine and Boat Manufacturers, Inc., today sanctioned two more shows, one to be held at Los Angeles, March 8-15, and the other at Chicago April 25-May 3.

The Chicago event, announced as the first of its kind there since 1916, will be put on at the Navy pier, formerly called the Municipal pier. It will permit boats to be shown in the water as well as on the floor. The national association, under whose auspices the New York event was held, declared its intention of participating fully in the exhibition which will be known as the Chicago national boat show.

Final Block Tonight Awaited By Sweepstakes Bowlers

Rosenberg, Unable to Roll, Names Perce Ellett as Proxy.

By R. J. ATKINSON.

ALL that the fourth annual Howard Campbell sweepstakes, which comes to a close tonight with the rolling of the third five-game block at King Pin No. 1 alleys, needs to make it the most outstanding bowling even in District duckpin history is a great climax, and just such a spirited finish is in promise. Any one of the first 25 in the present standing are clinging to a chance to win the $600 first prize and the diamond medal which goes with it. By an unusual reversal of form, most any one of the contestants can share in the money to be distributed among the five to finish at the top.

With eight men holding totals of 1,200 or better and only eleven pins separating the first six, the greatest bowling race in history is assured. George Friend tops the field by a two-pin margin over Paul Harrison and Joe Harrison is as close on the trail of his brother. Dutch Newman is four pins farther to the rear and Chester Lindstrom is one pin behind Newman, with Max Rosenberg in sixth place, a pin behind Lindstrom.

TWENTY LEADERS IN DUCKPIN STAKES

|---|---|
| George Friend | 1,238 |
| Paul Harrison | 1,236 |
| Joe Harrison | 1,233 |
| Dutch Newman | 1,229 |
| Chester Lindstrom | 1,228 |
| Max Rosenberg | 1,227 |
| Bradley Mandley | 1,200 |
| Harold Hodges | 1,200 |
| Clements Weidman | 1,196 |
| Ray Ward | 1,194 |
| Oscar Hiser | 1,194 |
| Carroll Daly | 1,193 |
| Eddie Espey | 1,192 |
| Tony Santini | 1,187 |
| Phil Goodall | 1,187 |
| Hokie Smith | 1,183 |
| Joe Mulroe | 1,179 |
| Howard Campbell | 1,179 |
| Irvin Billheimer | 1,168 |
| Leo Rinaldi | 1,164 |

Ellett Ranking Star Of Many Years.

Perce Ellett was named last night to roll for Maxie Rosenberg in the final block. Rosenberg, who sprained his ankle Wednesday when he fell on a slippery street, is in sixth place. Ellett, a ranking star for many seasons, failed to enter the event in his own right this year, should prove an able proxy for the Temple star. Ellett has done some great bowling at King Pin No. 1 and may carry Maxie to the big purse.

George Friend, who also injured his leg in a fall on the icy streets, may have to favor the injured member tonight, but will battle himself to keep out in front. Arthur Logan remains ill at his home and the veteran Jack Williams will continue where he took up the task a week ago.

Harold Hodges, who has been going great guns this season, having turned in the best league set to date with 442, and Brad Mandley, defending champion and steady performer, are close upon the leaders with even 1200 strings. Clem Weidman and Ray Ward, two King Pin dependables, are just out of the select eight and Oscar Hiser and Carroll Daly are threats.

Eddie Espey, the younger of the field, and Hokie Smith, the Southeast newcomer, have surpassed the fondest expectations of their followers. Eddie is close to the top ten and Hokie is close enough to lead the field home in the stretch drive tonight.

King Pin Plans for Record Crowd.

Bill Wood is planning to entertain a record crowd tonight at his King Pin emporium. All available space will be turned over to the spectators and Arville L. Ebersole, secretary of the Washington City Duckpin Association, which sponsors the sweepstakes, arranged for the draw for alleys in advance in order that followers of individual entrants may know in advance on which drives their favorites perform. The idea is to come early and get a front seat behind your choice.

Alleys have been assigned as follows:

21—Billheimer, Schroth, Friend.
22—Work, Barnard, Talbert.
24—Clarke, C. Wolfe, Goodall, Santini.
25—Megaw, Lindstrom, Schester, Mergan.

Bill Confining Teams To State Elicits Jokes

Frankfort, Ky., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—A bill to prohibit athletic teams of any institution maintained by the State from engaging in any contest with a team from out of the State was introduced in the Senate today by Senator H. D. Fitzpatrick, Republican, of Floyd County.

Senator Fitzpatrick is a graduate of Centre College, which severed all athletic relations with the University of Kentucky last fall after Kentucky declined to renew its football contract on grounds that Southern Conference rules prohibited it from playing Centre's Football Team any longer, due to different eligibility requirements in the conference and the S. I. I. A.

Senator Fitzpatrick's bill was referred to the committee on fish and game by Lieut. Gov. Breathitt. Jocular remarks were made by several senators after introduction of the bill.

THE SPOON INSTEAD OF THE DRIVER—IS BEST FOR A NOVICE

Answered By WILLIE OGG,

New England Professional, Former Massachusetts Open, Shawnee Open Champion.

Novices are usually more successful with the spoon than with the driver or brassie, owing to their inability to get the ball into the air. Hence, my advice to them is to use the spoon until such a time as they are competent to use these clubs.

The iron clubs with little loft, such as the cleek and driving iron, have no place in the novice's bag. A good selection of clubs for the beginner consists of the spoon, midiron, jigger or mashie-iron, mashie, mashie-niblick, niblick and putter. These will enable him to make a far better showing than if he carried a large assortment of clubs that he did not know how to use.

Ruth Is Paid Not Only for Home Runs

Klein, of Phils, Who Hit 43, Likely to Draw $10,000.

Babe's Greater 'Color' Justifies Demand for $85,000.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

WITH home run ability apparently being the basis on which the salaries of sluggers are decided, the cases of Babe Ruth and Chuck Klein bring up an unusual situation, leading to the belief that some of these four-base clouts are much more valuable than others. Ruth, for instance, who was credited with 46 round-trippers last season, has spurned an offer from the New York Yankees which would give him $75,000 for each of the next two seasons—the same salary drawn by the President of the United States. The Babe wants $85,000 for each of the next three seasons.

In Philadelphia, Klein, who was credited with 43 for a new National League record, probably drew around $7,500 salary in 1929 and will consider himself fortunte if he can pry President Phil Baker loose from about $2,500 additional during the coming season.

The great difference in the baseball esteem with which these players are held apparently is accounted for by that indescribable item—color. Ruth, a veteran, of 35, furnished the spark which started the fans' craving for four-base kocks. In 1920 he astounded pitchers, other players, magnates and fans with a total of 54, following it with 59 and still later with 60, the high mark. This put the Babe on a pedestal in the eyes of the fans, who considered him the original, and all other home run hitters were imitators.

Babe Strikes Out Interestingly.

With Ruth due to do his stuff, the fans fight to get past the turnstiles, and it is largely due to the interest he has created in the minds of the cash customers that the Yankees have drawn steady patronage, whether the pennant race has been over or not. There is basis for the feeling that the fans get more of a kick seeing the Bambino strike out than in watching some lesser light pole out a homer. Such is the power of "color," and this is the reason why Ruth can demand—and he'll probably get it—$85,000 for playing a game which he enjoys for only about six months every year.

Although Klein no doubt will work during the coming season for perhaps only one-tenth of the salary asked by Ruth, indications are that his day is coming and that he has the best chance of any of those now in the game to ultimately oust the Babe from his throne as home-run king.

Klein is but 24 years of age and has just completed his first full season as a major leaguer. Three years ago he was playing semipro ball on the sandlots of Indianapolis. He joined the Evansville Club in 1927 and cracked out five homers in fourteen games, only to suffer a fractured ankle and to remain out for the balance of that season.

Hit .360 In First Year With Phils.

In 1928, he went to the Fort Wayne Club, hitting 27 four-baggers in 84 games. Then he was sold to the Phillies, playing 64 games and hitting .360. He cracked out 11 home runs that season, and followed with his record-breaking 43 last year.

Being just a youngster, with his future ahead of him, he appears to be outstanding as Ruth's successor in the realm of swat. But, being a mere imitator—and doing his imitating outside of New York with a club owned by Phil Baker—it's dollars to doughnuts that he'll never rival the Babe in salary or as a box-office attraction, for as the fans view things, there's only one Babe Ruth, and there may never be another.

Palm Beach, Fla., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Grantland Rice, sports writer, won his second annual artists and writers golf championship here this afternoon when he defeated Jefferson Machamer, magazine cartoonist, 2 and 1, in the finals.

Greenleaf Bows Twice To Taberski at Cues

Ralph Greenleaf, world's pocket-billiard champion, played so listlessly yesterday afternoon and last night in his match with Frank Taberski, 1928 champion, that he was beaten twice at the Lewis and Krauss parlors. In both matches, Taberski was always in front, winning in the afternoon, 100 to 50, and last night, 100 to 72.

Taberski had high run of 38, which ended with a scratch, in the matinee game and a cluster of 26 in the evening, running out his string in the latter match with an unfinished run of 14. Greenleaf was unfortunate in miscuing, doing so no less than four times in the night match, once ending his best cluster of the day, 23.

Both entertained after the matches with trick and fancy shots which interested the large galleries almost as much as did the actual competition.

Primo Carnera, Italian Giant, Knocks Out Peterson in First Round Before 17,000

Big Boy Stays Down After Losing Stance for Fourth Time.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER,
Special to The Washington Post.

MADISON SQUARE GARDEN, New York, N. Y., Jan. 24.—Like a monster stalking through a very bad dream, Primo Carnera, the Venetian giant, pounded Clayton (Big Boy) Peterson down and out in the first round of his first prize fight in the United States this evening. The job took one minute and ten seconds. They met in the Garden with all 17,000 seats occupied by $60,000 worth of trade and the forward rows on the quarter-deck very bright with the pallid shimmer of boiled shirts. Peterson had been selected with special care to play the victim by the New York prize fight commissioners and he gave what the chaps on the drama page would call an adequate performance in a very negative role. He went down four times before the tremendous rushes of the European athlete who used to serve as shepherd for a herd of elephants in a tent show, and in three of these sprawls the question before the customers was "did he fall or did he sit?"

Clayton weighed 209 pounds to the 269 pounds of the guest performer who somehow seems to have suffered considerable shrinkage since he landed on these shores on the last day of the old year, claiming to weigh 285 in good condition and to rise 6 feet 10 inches.

Doctors Survey Proves Shrinkage.

The boxing commissioners' doctors surveyed him at the weighing-in during the afternoon and the official chart of his physique, which has now been made a part of the record, shows that he is just 6 feet 6 inches tall, about half an inch shorter than Victorio Campolo, a tallish young man from the Argentine, who has already extended his most cordial insults to Primo and invited him to fight under formal business conditions.

Peterson was only three inches shorter than Primo, but the ungainly canvas-hand loomed over and about him in a manner that obviously inspired Big Boy with awe and misgivings as they stood in the center listening to the recitation of the referee's ceremonial sing song.

"Primo, meet Big Boy," said Mr. Joe Humphreys, the town Demosthenes who rolls a wad of chewing gum from tooth to tooth and back again to the other tooth instead of mouthing pebbles.

"What do you mean, Big Boy?" Mr. Carnera inquired facetiously, eyeing the spare form of the native push-over.

Primo Waddles Across The Ring.

At the first clack of the big brass gong Primo waddled across on two huge leds with varicose veins as big as fire-hose entwining about his calves, performed an agile skip and bounced into Peterson's corner. The Big Boy stood back, alarm in his gray eyes and waved his arms with something of the preliminary motion of Aileen Riggin just before the take-off from a 20-foot stage.

Primo charged, swung an overhand right that pounded Peterson on his left ear and crashed into him, bunting him down like a plunging full back running into an upright tackle. Peterson's feet were whipped from beneath him and he sat down stoutly on the heel of his black satin tights, more stunned by the collision and the landing than by the clout on the head. He sat there pondering briefly but it seemed not yet time to retire so he arose with manifest reluctance at the count of four or five and Primo crashed into him again, this time hoisting a right uppercut from a glove so big that it landed all over his face.

Won't You Sit Down?

"Won't you sit down?" shrilled Mr. Eddie Devlin, the popular Tenth Avenue undertaker, and Big Boy thought so well of the idea that he landed again as a hollow boom reverberated under the planking. This time, Big Boy took nine seconds to get up and while he sat there he went through a strange performance, idly batting himself on his own chin with both hands, as though trying to finish the job himself and avoid the necessity for any further traffic with Primo.

These punches seemed to have no effect, and Clayton probably lost heart about there, for he is deemed to have one of the most sensitive chins in the prize-fight industry at this time, and as his chin could withstand his own punches, there was not much likelihood of Primo's being seriously inconvenienced.

Presently he got up and Carnera went galloping at him with his left extended like the lance of Gallahad, or, perhaps Quixote. It was not a punch in the nice technical sense, but it served the same purpose, for Primo's left glove, a mass upholstery as big as a medicine ball, fetched Big Boy a push among his features and bumped him to the floor for nine seconds more.

Rolls on His Rounded Heels.

He had barely tottered to his feet and was rolling on his heels, which hve become pretty well rounded in the course of his experience, when

Professional Boxing Sought for District

A new move to legalize professional boxing here will be made next week by Representative Loring Black (Democrat), New York, who intends to introduce a bill which would give Washington a boxing law modeled somewhat after the Walker law in New York.

The Walker law, according to Mr. Black, took boxing in New York when it was a "racket" and transformed it into a sport which now is patronized by some of the leading people of New York City.

After he has introduced his bill to give Washington such a law, Mr. Black intends to bring a member of the New York commission here so that he can explain how it works in New York.

Experts Have Mixed Opinions After His U. S. Debut.

Primo raised his right hand and simply dropped it on his shoulders. The weight of its seemed to crush Clayton, and, concluding that the patrons had now seen sufficient evidence of Primo's buoyant nature and frisky get-about, he languished on the floor until the count had reached the sweetest numeral in the mathematics of the tired palooka ten.

Primo had entered the ring wearing a novel costume, a sleeveless open-work sweater, cut very decolette. Only three of his eight managers of record attended him in the corner, and one of these, a diminutive Frenchman, hopped up on the stool to peel this garment from his frame and remove a green cap the size of a German pancake. When Primo stood up, agitating his great lumps of muscle and inflating his chest for the wonder of the attendance, he disclosed the figure of a wild boar embroidered on his trunks, signifying, no doubt, that he wished to be known as such himself. At this, Fainting Phil Scott, the tame bore of the roped arena, arched his brows, plucked his kerchief from his sleeve and exclaimed, "My word!"

Professionals Express Mixed Opinions.

The professionals among the attendance expressed mixed opinions of Primo. Of course, Peterson had been selected strictly with a view to

Central Upset 36-22 by Lincoln Park Court Team.

Business Goes Down Fighting in 31-29 Setback.

By WILLIAM F. DISMER, Jr.,

WESTERN HIGH SCHOOL without playing a game was moved into first place of the Interhigh Basket Ball League yesterday when Eastern and Tech took revenge on two rivals who had downed them in previous games by defeating Central and Business, respectively.

Eastern's 36-22 victory over Central was the second loss of the series for that school, leaving Western at the top of the heap with a record of three wins and one loss. Tech, by eking out a 31-29 win over Business, moved into a tie with Central for the runner-up post, with a record of three games won out of five played.

For the first part of the afternoon it appeared that the smallest crowd yet of the series was doomed to witness one of the dullest pair of games yet played, but starting with the opening whistle of the Business-Tech fray, the fans were awakened with a start and kept alive until the final gun, which found every one in the place standing and screaming.

Left on the short end of a 15-to-14 margin as the first half ended, Tech's gray-clad warriors came back with a determined rush in the third quarter, which sent its total soaring to 28 points, while holding Business well in check, leaving the count 28 to 23 as the final period began.

Teams Fight as Though Lives Were at Stake.

Then started two of the wildest attacks to score points, by teams fighting as if for their lives, as has yet been seen in the series. Although scoring but one field goal and one foul in that final ten minutes of play, Tech was able to call a halt on the orange-clad courtmen of Business, who all but tied the score.

With his team 3 points behind, Capt. Natie Newman sent the Business stands into a wild demonstration by pocketing a long shot from the side. But in the next instant Business cheer was turned to gloom when Spencer Chase, elongated center, who was playing such an important part in the spurt, was banned from the game with four personal fouls. For the next three minutes neither side was able to score, with players of both teams missing countless easy shots which nine times out of ten would have fallen through the net.

In the last minute of play, "J. B." Olverson made good on a try from the foul line which gave it the 2-point advantage which was unmarred for the next 40 seconds.

Business Gets Away to Early Lead.

As usual, Business got off to an early lead despite the efforts of George Laasisse and Everett Russell in the first half and with every Stenog taking a hand in the scoring, was leading at half-time, 15 to 14. However, Capt. Carl MacCartee provided the spark which served to ignite the Maroon and Gray in that third ten minutes of play, and while Business was standing still, led an attack which sent his team to a 23-to-15 margin. Olverson, who had gone in for Johns at center, played an important role in the onslaught.

TUTTI FRUTTI BETTERS RECORD FOR MILE AT MIAMI

Chilean Horse Travels Mile In 1:38 2-5

Barnes Uses Whip to Beat Out Herrick by Half Length.

Scotland Scores for Favorite Players at Fair Grounds.

MIAMI RACE TRACK, Miami, Fla., Jan 24 (A.P.).—Tutti Frutti, running in the silks of the Chilean Enrique Gutierrez, won the Everglades purse, one mile, here today and in doing so created a new track record for the distance. He ran the mile in 1:38 2-5, which is one full second faster than the best previous time made by Sterling Silver. Tutti Frutti's race was a much better performance as he carried 115 pounds and made all the pace. He was ridden by Barnes and the veteran put up one of his best rides. Tutti Frutti was quoted at 5 to 2. Herrick, 2 to 1, was second with Boris, 6 to 1, third.

The early pace in this race was not very fast. Tutti Frutti ran the first quarter in 24 2-5; leading by two lengths. He flashed by the half-mile post in 48 1-5, still leading by two lengths. However, Herrick was running very fast and at the three-quarter pole was at the leader's saddle girths and going easy. In the final furlong Barnes used the whip freely on Tutti Frutti and the horse responded gamely to win by half a length. Herrick beat Boris four lengths for the place.

New Orleans Sprint To Scotland.

Fair Grounds Race Track, New Orleans, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Coming from behind in the final furlong, E. K. Bryson's 6-year-old Scotland won his first race of the winter campaign today with a victory in the feature purse. The race was a six-furlong sprint for 4-year-olds and up, with Scotland the favorite.

The track was rated good for the first time in several days, with the result that the Bryson entry was at his best. He finished the six furlongs in 1:12 2-5 and two lengths in front of the Paradise Stock Farm's Film. Four lengths back of the latter trailed Mrs. R. Pollard's Mortgage for show money. The winner paid $4.30 to win, $2.90 place and $2.40 to show.

It developed after the second race that Little Guinea owned by Mrs. J. Dreyer, had broken his leg just above the ankle, which necessitated his being destroyed. He was a 6-year-old chestnut gelding by Golden Guinea-Little Nieces.

CARNERA KNOCKS OUT PETERSON IN FIRST

accentuating Carnera's mastodonic power by a quick subsidence and he met the expectations of all present so quickly and with so little resistance that there was no good way to guage the Italian athlete's effectiveness against a fairly good prize fighter. However, he was amazingly nimble and the force of his 260 pounds of muscle and bone in a direct collision would be likely to upset anyone now in active practise in the ring. However, a fairly confident and resourceful boxer would be likely to reach out and deter him with a clout on his chin which is large and virtually nude of defensive works and it will cost the customers several more contributions for fights like this one before his cabinet will permit him to take up relations with any such as Sharkey, Griffiths, or the one man who would be most likely to undo him, George Godfrey, the Negro.

V.M.I. AND VA. RING MEET TONIGHT

Dixie Rivals Meet in Charlottesville Gymnasium.

Special to The Washington Post.

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Jan. 24.—Virginia's boxing team is polishing its punches for the ring engagement with the mittmen from Virginia Military Institute tomorrow night at 7:30 o'clock in the Memorial Gymnasium. It will be the first home match of the season.

The Cavalier leather pushers will present a somewhat revised team when they face the scrappers from Lexington. Coach John LaRowe was not at all satisfied with the showing of some of his men against Virginia Poly last Saturday at Blacksburg, and he has called for changes.

Entries will be the same in the three lightweight classes. Mackey Wright will box as bantamweight, Jack Fishburne as featherweight and Capt. Bob Rainey as lightweight. Fishburne and Rainey are veterans who have moved up a weight since last season, leaving the 115-pound class open for Wright, who is being used as a regular for the first time.

Louis Kesser probably will be the welterweight entry. Kesser was on the '29 team. He did not win his "V" although he was in some fine scraps, notably a 4-round match against one of the Navy stars.

McHugh Training Down To Middleweight.

John McHugh, who won the light-heavy bout in Blacksburg, will train down to the middleweight division this week, leaving the other class open to Fenton Gentry, second string center on the varsity football team. Jerry Webb will again see action in the heavyweight division.

Capt. Rainey and Fishburne are the only two men on the team who were regulars last season. Kesser has had some previous experience, but all of the others lack the skill and confidence that comes after many ring encounters.

In their season's debut last Saturday night, the Lexington Cadets lost a fast and closely contested meet to Western Maryland, 2 to 5. Capt. Rogers, of V. M. I., dropped his opponent after only 30 seconds of the first round, while in the unlimited class McCray won a referee's decision over Pincura, of Western Maryland.

Referee Target of Crowd In Game at Cumberland

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 24.—Over 2,000 spectators were thrown into confusion at the State Armory last night when some of the crowd leaped from across the side lines and from the balconies and stopped the Western Maryland Interscholastic Basket Ball League game between Lasalle Institute and Penn Avenue High, of this city. It was an effort to "get" Referee Morris Touchton, U. S. M. A., following banishing Conley, Lasalle center, from the game after committing his fourth foul. There had been a dispute among scorers, the majority giving Conley two personal fouls, when Touchton declared he called three on him. With Touchton then calling the fourth, Conley had to go. Touchton was the target for several fists before a cordon of police could escort him from the floor. One of the officers drew a gun.

This was when the game had yet five minutes to go and the score was 24 to 17 in favor of Penn Avenue. It was when the score stood 14 to 14 that Conley was banished. He had been holding Proudfoot, of the opposition, well and the game was regarded as anybody's until he went out.

Charlottesville, Va., Jan. 24.—Defeating Lane High here tonight, 13 to 11, the R. E. Lee High School Quint, of Staunton, maintained its lead in district 4. The contest was fast and desperately fought throughout. At half time the score was knotted, 6 to 6, the visitors being held to one field goal.

Each team registered two field goals in the second period, but Staunton made good in three out of four tries from the charity mark, while Lane got only one of three.

ANACOSTIA EAGLES WIN.

The Anacostia Eagles, in the 145-pound class, defeated the Surattsville High Five, 33-to-21, at Surattsville last night. Wallace led the scorers with ten points. The Eagles have the use of the Eastern high gym at 7 o'clock tonight and want a game. Call Lincoln 3859, if interested.

M'GOLRICK'S SET 406.

Joe McGolrick, anchor of the Meyer Davis Team of the National Capital League, did some heavy pin spilling at Lucky Strike last night as his team took six games from the lowly Packwood Printing Co. Five and grabbed a firm hold on first place. Joe combined a 372 set with a 406 set for a total of 778 pins for the six games. His big strings included 155 and 154 games.

ALEXANDRIA SPORTS

ALEXANDRIA, Jan. 24.—Notice has been received by the St. Mary's Celtics and the Knight Store Five that the blanks for entering of the South Atlantic tournament will have to be sent to The Washington Post by February 1, that being only one week off. The Knight tossers have not yet made up their minds whether they will enter the tourney, while the St. Mary's Celtics, having one of the best clubs to represent them in the last four years, are expected to compete in the event.

The Episcopal High School Basket Ball Team left this morning for Richmond, Va., where it will play two games in the State Capital this weekend. Tonight, it is playing the St. Christopher Team, while tomorrow night it tackles its rival, McGuire's School. Coach Fleming and eight players made the trip.

Tomorrow night at Schulers Hall the St. Mary's Basket Ball Team will face the hardest test of the season when it stacks up against the fast Woodlawn A. C., of Fort Myer. The visitors are coming here with a strong team and on their last appearance in this city against the Del Ray A. C. completely vanquished the local boys. The Celtics have been going at a fast pace for the last three weeks and, with Frenchy Cohan in the line-up, look like a new team on the floor.

STOCK PRICES CLIMB TO HIGH 1930 LEVELS

Day's Turnover of 3,480,830 Shares Sets Record for New Year.

ADVANCE IN U. S. STEEL

New York, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—The recovery in stock prices gained sufficient momentum today to carry the general average of 90 stocks to a new high level for the year, although heavy week-end profit-taking and a renewal of bear selling cut down many of the early gains. Trading showed a further expansion in volume, the day's sales of 3,480,830 shares setting a new high level for the year.

While the recent upturn in steel mill activity, the decrease in unemployment and indications of an easing credit situation have created a more cheerful sentiment in speculative circles, many of the recent advances have nevertheless been attributed to the correction of a temporarily oversold position. The precipitous retreat of the short interest in Fox Film yesterday undoubtedly has forced many timid shorts into covering their committments, although many issues, particularly in the merchandising group, again gave evidence today that professional "bear" traders had renewed their attacks.

Weekly mercantile reviews reported further irregularities in the general situation, but confirmed the increased activities in the heavier industries, notably steel and automotive. The excellent Bethlehem Steel report, issued after the close of yesterday's market, naturally led to expectations of a splendid showing by the United States Steel Corporation in its quarterly report to be issued after the directors meeting next Tuesday.

Rumely Shares Decline.

The breaking down of the merger negotiations between Advance Rumely and Allis Chalmers was followed by a sharp decline in the common and preferred stocks of the former.

Fox Film fluctuated in an erratic manner all day because of the uncertainty regarding the outcome of the receivership hearing next Monday, the stock closing fractionally lower at 26¾ after having sold as high as 29¾ and as low as 24½.

U. S. Steel common touched a new high on the current recovery at 177½, or 8½ points above the recent offering price of stock to employes under the partial payment plan and then sagged to 176 for a net gain of 1 point. Bethlehem crossed par for a net gain of more than 2 points, but eased to 99½ at the close.

Montgomery Ward, Sears, Roebuck and Safeway Stores bore the brunt of the selling in the merchandising and chain store groups, but the net declines were held to a point or two.

General Electric Advances.

Allied Chemical, American Bank Note, Atlas Powder, General Electric (old), Otis Elevator, Van Raalte and White Motor were among the few issues which retained their early gains of 4 points or more.

Call money went through its usual performance of renewing unchanged at 4½ per cent and then dropping to 4 when the supply of funds became so plentiful that the official renewal rate was lowered in the outside market. Other monetary accommodations were unchanged. No change was made by the Chicago Federal Reserve Bank in its rediscount rate of 4½ per cent.

Wheat futures declined about a cent a bushel on selling inspired by the poor demand for flour, small exports and a bearish Canadian crop estimate. Corn lost about 1½ cents a bushel in reflection of the bearish Government report on hogs, larger receipts and easier cash markets. Cotton closed practically unchanged.

Except for a jump of 13 points in Spanish pesetas, there were no changes of consequence in the foreign exchange market. Sterling cables held steady at $4.86⅝.

CHICAGO GRAIN.

Chicago, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—Wheat values pursued a general downward course today, notwithstanding rallies associated with Oklahoma grain growers' efforts looking to famine-relief shipments of wheat to China. Weakness of wheat prices at Winnipeg and Liverpool today had an unsettling influence here, together with the fact that no export wheat sales of any moment were in evidence either in Canada or this country, whereas Southern Hemisphere exports showed enlargement. Owing to signs of a broadening out of corn receipts at terminal markets, lowest prices yet this season were touched today by all deliveries of corn.

Wheat in Chicago closed heavy, near the day's bottom figures, 1 cent to 1⅜ cent a bushel lower than yesterday's finish. Corn closed 1¾ to 1¾@1⅞ cents down and oats ⅜ to ¾ cent off, but with provisions showing 7 to 45 cents advance.

Drawing down the wheat market here and at other leading centers were advices that wheat shipments from Australia and Argentina this week total 2,061,000 bushels, more than double last week. Furthermore, the wheat visible supply in Australia was reported as 6,000,000 bushels greater than a week ago, with government elevators in New South Wales declining any additional receipts. Mention was also being made of numerous business failures in European continental countries, and a comprehensive summary at hand showed that, although there is some lack of snow covering the general condition of domestic weather, wheat appears favorable, and no extreme cold weather is in immediate prospect.

Friends of higher prices for wheat displayed considerable interest today in reports that a conference had taken place between the director of the Oklahoma Wheat Growers Association and members of the Oriental Relief Association relative to sending surplus wheat and other foodstuffs to multitudes of starving Chinese. It was added that President Hoover was being urged to help make the movement national in scope and that freight rates be reduced on the transportation of the relief supplies as well as that the United States Shipping Board facilitate arrangements. Buying of wheat future deliveries was encouraged through these reports, but price recoveries which ensued failed to last.

Corn was under much selling pressure throughout the entire day. Contributing to the downward action of corn values was a bearish construction placed on official announcement that there are 4,280,600 fewer hogs on farms than a year ago. Oats followed corn, with July oats selling at a new low level for the season.

Provisions advanced owing largely to the Government report showing decrease of the number of hogs on farms.

U. S. BONDS ADVANCE WHILE RAILS SLUMP

FOREIGN SHARES MIXED

New York, Jan. 24 (A.P.).—United States Government securities enjoyed a lively rally in the late bond trading today, but domestic corporation obligations, notably the rails, were under moderate pressure and again lost ground.

The gain in the Government group was general, although with the exception of two issues only small blocks of obligations were involved. The Treasury 4s moved up half a point while the fourth liberties rose ¼, both on turnovers of more than $10,000 principal amount. The improvement, which followed a week of easing prices in these barometers of credit conditions, was interpreted in some circles as forecasting lower money rates. Time funds today were unchanged at 4½ to 4¾ per cent for all maturities.

Foreign bonds were rather mixed. French 7s made a new high for the past year on heavy transactions. Belgian and German agricultural bank issues were firm, but Australian 5s and 4½s, New South Wales 5s, Greek 6s, Rio de Janeiro 6s and most of the Argentine 6s sagged.

Chesapeake & Ohio Gains.

Santa Fe general 4s, with a net decline of 1⅛, indicated the tone of the high-grade rails, although most of the losses were fractional. Baltimore & Ohio bonds, Pennsylvania gold 4s, Union Pacific refunding 4s, New York Central general 3½s, St. Louis & San Francisco 4½s and Burlington refunding 4½s gave ground. Chesapeake & Ohio general 4½s, Rock Island 4½s and 4s and Pennsylvania general 4½s, on the other hand, firmed.

Indications that interest is not lacking in new convertible offerings was seen in the trading in the proposed issue of Baltimore & Ohio 4½s, which are to be offered to stockholders at 95, on approval of the Interstate Commerce Commission. The bonds, traded "when issued" on the curb market, sold up to 102½, closing at 101¾ on a turnover of more than $1,000,000.

Convertibles listed on the "big board" attracted wider attention as stocks gained strength. Missouri Pacific 5½s, New Haven 6s and Atchison 4½s rose about a point, while American Telephone 4½s, changing hands briskly, closed ¼ higher. Public Service of New Jersey 4½s, on which the conversion privilege soon expires, climbed 2⅜.

Schulte Co. Advances.

Most of the outstanding changes in industrials appeared in bonds of liberal yield. American Writing Paper 6s rose 5 points, Gotham Silk Hosiery 6s gained 3 and Certainteed 5½s advanced 2¼. Among the specialties, National Dairy 5½s surpassed their 1929 high at 99⅛ and Schulte Co. 6½s, Series A, moved up 2 points.

Washington Water Power 5s, an inactive, lost 4½ points on the announcement that this subsidiary of American Power & Light was soon to market a $15,000,000 issue of 30-year 5s at 98⅛.

As a group, the utilities were quiet, although Montana Power 5s, Northern States Power 5s and Pacific Gas & Electric 5s drew rather active inquiry.

WORTH OF BANKING LESSONS STRESSED

New Yorker Says Youthful Bankers Should Study Institute's Courses.

60 ATTEND DINNER HERE

By THOMAS M. CAHILL.

Addressing a dinner meeting of officials of Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, last night at the Raleigh Hotel, Harold Stonier, New York City, educational director of the institute, urged that its advantages be sold to young banking men and women over the argument of insufficient time to attend its classes.

Showing where the present generation has far more spare time than past ones, he advised that prospective members be shown where they could "budget their time and let first things come first." Selling, he explained, conforms to the modern banking idea which combines merchandising with finance.

Sixty, including chapter officers, instructors, governors and consuls, were in attendance. There were talks by President A. E. Henze, of the chapter; Frank M. Perley and Robert H. Lacey, chairman of its respective educational and membership committees and instructors in its courses. Washington Chapter is now thirteenth in enrollment on a list of 200 in the United States and the chapters ahead of it are all in larger cities.

K. W. Walker in New York.

Maj. Gen. Kenzie W. Walker, chairman of the board of Standard Collateral Shares Corporation, is in New York conferring with trustees concerning the semiannual dividend to be paid February 15.

Robert H. Lacey, Columbia National Bank, chairman, membership committee, Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, has launched a membership drive for the chapter.

President Ezra Gould, Washington Mechanics Savings Bank, is visiting in Palm Beach until March 1.

Raymond D. Lewis, American Security & Trust Co., editor of Dollars and Sense, is receiving many congratulations on the latest issue, containing greetings from President W. J. Evans, American Institute of Banking, and a Christmas savings club story, by Elliot H. Thomson, Washington Loan & Trust Co.

Doherty & Co.'s Stand Upheld.

Henry L. Doherty & Co.'s position on the partial-payment contract under which Cities Service Co. common stock was sold by them is sustained in a decision in the New York City Court in the case of Augusta Levy against the Doherty Co.

The plaintiff entered a partial-payment contract for shares, and after the market break, defaulted in instalments and sued for an amount based on the shares' market price, October 15, 1929, before the break, claiming the contract's language entitled her to the sum claimed.

The Doherty firm denied this, contending the contract was precise in terms and should be liquidated on a basis of November 15's market price, after the break.

NEWS OF LATEST HAPPENINGS IN MARYLAND AND VIRGINIA

ALEXANDRIA MAKES VOTING PROVISIONS

Former County Territory Must Be Cared For in Next Election.

MUST PROVIDE POLLS

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
312 S. Washington St., Alexandria, Va.
Phone Alexandria 523.

The question of providing proper voting facilities for the citizens of the territory which became a part of Alexandria January 1, by annexation from Arlington County, and which includes the town of Potomac, will be made shortly by the city council. The matter was brought up yesterday in a letter addressed by Albert V. Bryan, Commonwealth's attorney, to John W Tulloch, secretary of the city electoral board.

Attorney Bryan called attention to the fact that the law provides that the city council shall, by ordinance, organize the new territory into a new ward, or wards, and that this organization shall be made long enough before the next general city election to enable the electors in such annexed territory to register. These electors, Mr. Bryan said, are entitled to transfers from the registration books upon which their names now appear in Arlington County to the proper city books without again registering in the city, and any person residing in the new portion of the city who would have been entitled to register and vote at the next succeeding election in the county, had the territory not been annexed, shall be entitled to register in the city.

Mr. Bryan suggested that the city electoral board confer with the city council at an early date and have the new territory placed within one of the existing voting districts, or made into a new district, and appoint proper election officials therefor, so that the voters may have ample means and opportunity for casting their votes in the city before the next election.

Last September, following much dissatisfaction at the congestion in the general election of 1928, when many voters of the Third Ward were unable to cast their votes before the closing of the polls, a new precinct, known as the Rosemont Precinct, was formed of that portion of the old Third Ward lying west of the tracks of the Richmond, Fredericksburg & Potomac Railroad and north of King street, the voting place being in the electric railway station at Rosemont, which was formerly used as a substation.

This arrangement was found to facilitate matters considerably. The annexation, however, will add some 5,000 voters, or more than 10 per cent, to the qualified voters of the city, and since, geographically, these would be within the Rosemont Precinct, the addition of these to that precinct would in all probability cause congestion. For this reason it is considered probable that another new precinct will be created.

Alonzo Crouch, 44 years old, of 3 Terra Cotta lane, died yesterday at the Alexandria Hospital as the result of injuries received when he was struck by an automobile Wednesday night. The accident occurred on Mount Vernon avenue near Hume Springs. The machine which struck Crouch was driven by Martin J. Manning, of 1001 Mount Vernon avenue, who conveyed the injured man to the hospital.

It was at first thought that Mr. Crouch's injuries consisted only of a broken nose and lacerations. He remained at the hospital after receiving treatment by Dr. M. D. Delaney, and his condition rapidly grew worse until he died at 1 o'clock yesterday.

Mr. Crouch was employed at the Potomac River Clay Works, near his home. Besides his widow, Mrs. Margaret Crouch, he is survived by five children, two of whom are by a former marriage. Dr. T. Marshall Jones, city coroner, will hold an inquest later.

The recent issue of $750,000 of Alexandria City bonds will be delivered to the purchaser, Louis E. Smoot, Monday. He will pay the city $735,000 for the bonds and interest from January 1, 1930.

These bonds bear interest at the rate of 4½ per cent and are known as annexation and public improvement bonds. Mr. Smoot's bid was the highest of seven received. The bonds are payable in certain sums every five years, the minimum amount to be redeemed in any one period being $15,000, and the maximum $30,000, the last of them expiring January 1, 1968.

Of the amount received for the bonds the city will pay to Arlington County $500,000 for permanent improvements and buildings in the recently annexed territory, and the remainder will be used by the city council for street and other improvement work, one of the projects being the widening of Russell road.

Daily O'Currences

By JOHN DALY

LUELLA came soliciting a subscription to The Washington Post.

"What's the idea? I'm already a subscriber."

"I know, but sign on the dotted line again. You see——"

"Have you purchased an interest in the paper, or something like that?"

"Of course not. I've just entered this contest."

"What contest?"

"The $20,000 Opportunity contest."

"Oh! So that's it."

"Yes, that's it, and if I'm gonna win an automobile or a radio——"

"We've got a radio——"

"You call it a radio. It won't even get Baltimore——"

"Who wants Baltimore? Besides, radio's going out. Television——"

"All right," she said, "I'll try for an automobile."

"But we've got an automobile, too," Luella laughed.

* * * *

COME to think of it, poor old Jenny, as we call the car, isn't much to brag about. Was a time, though, when she seldom missed on all six—only five. Now she never hits Luella won me over: "All right, I'll take another subscription. The Washington Post, if I'm any judge, is a good newspaper——"

"Good?" She looked me straight in the eye. "Say," she flared, "you tell me where there's a better one and I'll buy it from you."

What I love is enthusiasm. Luella has it. You know what I mean.

"You must have been talking to Old Man Opportunity himself," I said.

"Talking to him? Say! I've fallen in love with him."

"Luella!"

"In a platonic way, of course. He came knocking at the door and I gave him a hand-out——"

"If that's all the farther it went, Okey! Here's your subscription to The Post. See that it arrives on time——"

"It'll be waiting for you the first thing in the morning," she said, pocketed the subscription and went her merry way. I hope she wins a bicycle, or a pair of roller skates.

CONSERVATION WORK OF STATE OUTLINED

PARK PROJECT HANDLED

Richmond, Va., Jan. 24 (A.P.).—In the three years since the State Commission on Conservation and Development was created it has effected the consolidation of the management of the geological survey, water resources and power and forest service; set up a division of history and archeology, and taken over the Shenandoah National Park project, according to a review of activities compiled by William E. Carson, chairman, and presented to the General Assembly.

The products of Virginia mines and quarries, said the report, with water power and forests, afforded the basis upon which was produced wealth in 1928 to the extent of $276,000,000, one-third of the wealth produced by all industries and $50,000,000 more than the value of the direct products of farming.

Reporting on the geological survey, the report stated that the limestone and marble deposits of the valley and Appalachian section have been under study throughout the last four summers, with supplementary results already produced. Studies of soapstone deposits in Albemarle and Nelson Counties have been made and a report prepared, and the cyanite-bearing rocks of Charlotte, Prince Edward and Buckingham Counties have been surveyed and other areas located. Cyanite is used in the manufacture of electrical porcelain and refractory brick.

Publication of a new and revised geological map of the State, with some 95 color combinations, was reported, and also a new 500-foot contour map of Virginia.

"We found upon investigation that the developed water power of Virginia is 136,640 horsepower, that the potential water power available 90 per cent of the time is 459,000 horsepower, and the potential water power available 50 per cent of the time is 812,000 horsepower, so that the necessity of bringing the water powers of the State under the authority of the State so as to have a systematic and orderly development was a matter of the very greatest necessity. Every drop of water flowing into the ocean that has not been fully used is wasted.

"Over the 300 years of Virginia's land expansion, the rights and titles in these water-covered areas and resources have become so complicated that the status of ownership in any particular case, under the different grants and transfers, is very uncertain and vitally affects the application of such statutes as the water power act. To aid in clearing up this situation, we have initiated a comprehensive study of the status of riparian rights."

RICHARDS WILL HEAD BLOSSOM FESTIVAL

New Director General Has Been Pioneer in Work of Apple Fete.

STARTS PLANS AT ONCE

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., Jan. 24.—Nelson F. Richards will be director general of the seventh annual Shenandoah apple blossom festival, to be held here this spring, it was announced today by William E. Cooper, chairman of the executive committee, who said Mr. Richards had accepted the position tendered by the committee.

He has been identified with the festival organization since the first celebration was held in the spring of 1924, and for the last five years has been director of parades, second only in importance to the position of general director. Mr. Richards said he would open offices at once and begin answering correspondence that already has been received by the executive committee relative to plans for the 1930 festival.

These inquiries come from many sections of the United States—people who desire to be assured of hotel or apartment house accommodations during the event, held in celebration of the blossoming of the millions of apple trees in commercial orchards of the Shenandoah-Cumberland-Potomac apple belt of four States. Mr. Richards is associated with his brothers, Boyd R. and Alva C. Richards, in the apple growing and exporting business, and is also commander of R. Y. Conrad Post, American Legion.

Mr. Richards said today a mass meeting of Winchester and Frederick County residents will be held at an early date to discuss any new feature which may be desired for consideration in connection with the festival, and that representatives of various railroad and steamship lines and agents of European and South American exporters will be invited to meet with them.

The committee appointed H. D. Robinson, D. E. Stultz, William Beverley and Clifford D. Grim as members of the committee on finance. The director general will appoint about 35 other committees.

When the ice began to crack the Negro turned back to submit to arrest, but never got to shore. The drowning took place at Old Forge. Sheriff Scott Cline, of this city, made the investigation and Magistrate John Bitner will hold an inquest.

Twyman was accompanied by another Negro, who escaped shortly after the suspected rum boat in which they had crossed the river from Maryland reached the West Virginia bank and was greeted by the officers who had been awaiting it.

ARLINGTON COUNTY'S FIRE RATES DECLINE

PUPILS' HONOR ROLL OUT

BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 509. Clarendon, Va.

From reports made public in Arlington County yesterday by the Inspection and Rating Bureau at Richmond, fire insurance rates show a reduction in Clarendon, Ballston, Cherrydale, Arlington, Lyon Park, Ashton Heights, Fort Myer Heights and Lyon Village.

These sections, according to the rate books now in the hands of fire insurance agencies, show that these sections where fire hydrants are within 500 feet of residences, come under the second class instead of the fourth class as heretofore. All of the above sections are now under the second class rating.

It is explained that the fourth class rates were based upon exposures of 70 feet clear space between properties. Under the second class rate, the rate is based upon only one exposure on either side of a dwelling and in the rear only up to 30 feet.

It is understood that Arlington County now has the lowest basis and exposure rate throughout the entire South.

It is further stated in the report that due to existing deficiencies in the water department facilities and fire department, there has been added to the basic rate of brick mercantile risks, 4 cents on the $100, and on frame mercantile risks, 5 cents.

The new rates become effective at once.

Meeting with representatives of the parent-teacher associations last night in the Clarendon Health Center, the value to be derived from the campaign which is being waged by the Arlington County Health Department, with the assistance of Miss Marian Gray, special worker from the State Tuberculosis Association, to wipe from the county the dreaded disease if properly carried on was brought home to those attending by Dr. P. M. Chichester, county health officer, and Dr. H. A. Latane, of Alexandria.

Dr. Latane, who for the last five years has conducted the special chest clinics in the county, in discussing the work stated that in 1882 the germ of the disease was discovered by Dr. Koch, and since that time much has been accomplished in the fight on the disease.

"With discovery of the germ, public health work was started, from which grew the National Tuberculosis Association, which has done much to reduce the disease throughout the county," Dr. Latane said.

"The records of one of the leading life insurance companies in the county shows that the death rate in the past 20 years has been reduced 60 per cent and is still going down, which shows that the work of the association, with the aid of the health departments, has accomplished much.

"In years past it was difficult to get people to come to the clinics, but that has changed and today the clinic, which is open to all, is doing much to reduce the spreading of the disease," he said.

Mrs. R. N. Davies, county health nurse, who is cooperating with Miss Gray in laying the foundation for the campaign, stated that during the last year 160 cases have been found in the county, of which 36 were positive and 14 new ones. During the year, she stated, 375 calls had been made.

Dr. Chichester stated that the campaign has the united support of all doctors in the county, the county school board, the chamber of commerce and all parent-teacher associations and that he felt confident great results will follow.

The following persons representing the several parent-teacher associations will constitute the executive committee: Barcroft School, Mrs. H. Tomlin; Cherrydale School, Mrs. O. C. ### Attorney Is Held In Death of Girl

Keyser Man Intoxicated on Day of Fatal Crash, Witnesses Say.

Special to The Washington Post.

Cumberland, Md., Jan. 24.—Herndon R. Athey, a young attorney of Keyser, W. Va., was ordered held by a coroner's jury in connection with the death of Miss Dorothy Dixon, 22 years old, of Keyser, near Dawson, this county, last Saturday night.

Nearly 20 witnesses were examined upon two main points of the investigation—the finding of two pint bottles of whisky near the girl's body and fruitless efforts to locate an unknown man, called "Porter" by Athey, and said to have been the driver of the car that left the road killing Miss Dixon. Testimony, however, tended to show that no trace of the alleged third occupant of the car had been found and that Athey was intoxicated earlier in the afternoon.

J. B. Kimball, Alaska, W. Va., who reached the scene 2 minutes after the car overturned, said he saw a man running toward Cumberland but was unable to identify him. One bottle of whisky was lying under the girl's arm and another at her feet, Kimball said. His testimony was corroborated by his companion, Miss Ruth Rinker, of Cumberland.

POSSE OF 25 HUNTS CAPITAL'S 'PANTHER'

Beast Is Sought in Maryland After It Escapes With Bait From Trap.

AFRICAN LION, IS CLAIM

Led by Deputy Sheriff Harry Robinson and V. M. Nichols, of the Prince Georges County police, a posse of about 25 men last night was searching for Northeast Washington's elusive "panther" in the vicinity of Ritchie, Md.

Late yesterday James Barshear, game warden of Prince Georges County, reported he saw an animal, believed to be the marauder, on the Charles Fowler farm, near Harry Fowler's, where the beast has been seen on two nights. Mr. Barshear said the creature, which had the appearance of a bobcat, headed through the woods toward Ritchie, Md. Immediately, Sheriff Charles S. Early, of Prince Georges County, who has been directing the searches, directed his men to start "beating the bushes" around the Fowler farm.

Eager to assist in the capture of the predatory animal, Larry Riggs, of Rockville, a wild game hunter, brought his trained dogs to Marlboro yesterday. After examining the tracks on the Fowler farm, Mr. Riggs said he was convinced the animal was an African lion, but he stated his dogs were unable to trail it, because of the crowd which had flocked to the scene of the beast's activities. Mr. Riggs expressed belief that the lion had escaped from a circus wintering in either Maryland or Virginia.

For two nights the farm of Harry Fowler on the Marlboro pike has been the creature's habitat. Wednesday night it made a foray on Fowler's hoggery, killed one pig and mutilated several others. Again Thursday night, it came to the farm. Although the hunters had prepared a trap for it, the animal snatched up the bait and dashed away while three heavily armed men stood by on guard.

Andrew F. Gasche, Prince Georges County deputy sheriff, said he saw the animal in the full glare of automobile headlights, but being unable to determine whether it was the "panther" or a dog, he allowed it to escape. Thus the well prepared plans to make the "kill" failed, and the prey got a meal of suet for his daring.

Throughout yesterday, hunters, among whom was said to have been a man wearing a Department of Agriculture badge who refused to reveal his identity "until I get the varmint," searched diligently.

Assault Upon Officer Costs Landholder $5

Harry Wedding, of near Camp Springs, Md., was found guilty by Judge J. Chew Sheriff in police court at Upper Marlboro, Md., yesterday on charges of assault and battery arising from a reported altercation three weeks ago with Policeman Frank Prince, of Prince Georges County. A fine of $5 was imposed.

Testimony was heard to the effect that Wedding became involved in a dispute with Prince when the policeman, with Deputy Sheriff A. W. Hepburn and Policeman V. N. Nichols, answered a call made by employes of the Potomac Electric Power Co. that Wedding had persistently refused to allow them to erect poles for the company's lines in front of his house. Wedding had maintained that the property in question belonged to him.

COMPENSATION ACT URGED IN ASSEMBLY

New Measure Is Favored by Federation of Labor in Virginia Capital.

GAME LAWS ARE CODIFIED

Special to The Washington Post.

Richmond, Va., Jan. 24.—A revised workmen's compensation act, providing an increase from 50 per cent to 66 2-3 per cent of the average weekly wages as the maximum compensation in event of injury, and raising other figures in the act proportionately, was introduced in the Virginia General Assembly today.

The new compensation bill is backed by the Virginia Federation of Labor and is designed, its proponents say, to obviate the possibility of industrial and labor conditions such as have caused much trouble in North Carolina.

In addition to raising the maximum compensation, the bill would provide, with $17 as the maximum weekly payment, that payments run for 400 weeks instead of 300 weeks, as at present, and that compensation in case of death be raised from $3,600 to $5,000.

Measures Are Introduced.

The income tax reductions measure, to raise exemption from $1,000 to $1,250, and from $2,000 to $2,500, for single and married persons, respectively, was reported by the Senate finance committee.

The Barber bill, stripped of many controversial features, including health annexation, which was left to the health department, reported by Senate general laws committee.

The adoption of a joint resolution putting the Legislature on record as favoring the Crampton bill in Congress which would establish national monuments to include Williamsburg, Yorktown and Jamestown.

A joint resolution of thanks to John D. Rockefeller, jr., who is restoring Williamsburg to its colonial grandeur at great expense, was adopted.

New Assessment Plan Urged.

An assessment measure, providing new method for assessing real estate for taxation, giving authority to boards in cities and setting up equalization boards in counties and providing appeals from assessments and hearings on changes, was introduced in the Senate.

Measures affecting reorganization of the commission of fisheries and other revisions of seafood laws were finished and sent to Gov. Pollard for his inspection before introduction Monday by Delegate W. A. Wright, chairman of Chesapeake and its tributaries committee, in the House, and by Senator John A. Lesner and Robert O. Norris, jr., in the Senate.

Mrs. C. C. White, of Mathews, introduced a bill that would provide for a remarking of the Baylor survey, marking the public oyster rocks of the State.

Senator B. F. Buchanan, of Smyth, introduced the assessment bill, said to have the approval of C. H. Morrisett, tax commissioner, and of Gov. Pollard, which would Senator Buchanan said, tend toward equalization of assessments in the political subdivisions to which, under segregation, are delegated all taxes on real estate, thus eliminating the necessity of State-wide equalization as of section against section or among counties.

Game Laws Bill Proposed.

Senator J. Belmont Woodson introduced the largest bill of the present session, a codification of all the game laws of the State as prepared and sponsored by the commission of game and inland fisheries. Two other bills went in that were at direct odds on exemption from jury service. Delegate Denney asked for an additional exemption list entry, exempting persons engaged in fruit packing, while one of the judicial council bills cuts the exempted list to include only a few classifications.

Senator John A. Lesner, of Norfolk, introduced a bill that would enable three or more building and loan associations to join in formation of a clearing house, similar in function to the New York Land Bank for the purpose of strengthening all the associations.

The third liberal arts college for women bill was introduced by Delegate J. C. Smith, of Lynchburg, and it proposed the "Virginia University College for Women" to be erected within the corporate limits of Lynchburg, one of the four places suggested by the Halsey commission.

Holland Tax Bill Passed.

Fifty thousand dollars was taken out of the State treasury this morning in a Senate bill without a single dissenting vote, when a measure, introduced by Senator Holland, was passed, providing that cities of the second class, under 10,000 population, might receive 60 per cent of the tax paid on bank stock. Suffolk, his city, will receive about $13,000 under this, and Winchester will receive about $10,000. Other cities will receive smaller amounts.

In the House, a bill introduced by Delegate R. L. Brewer, jr., was passed, allowing the State Highway Commission to add, under the 2½ per cent clause, mileage to the system on the basis of the present 7,200 miles instead of on the basis of the 4,000 miles in the original system, or of about 175 miles annually instead of 110 miles.

The House held memorial services for Capt. James Montgomery Johnston, sergeant-at-arms since 1895 and sole Confederate veteran on the House side of the capitol.

WOMAN DRIVER LOST LIFE

Lyon, of Fairmont street near Fourteenth street northwest, arising from the fatal injury of the woman driver of his machine early Monday when it crashed into a pole and plunged down a 30-foot embankment on the Marlboro pike near Forestville, Md., were dismissed yesterday by Judge J. ### Prisoner in Fairfax Court Pleads Guilty and Is Sentenced at Once.

DIVORCES ARE GRANTED

FAIRFAX BUREAU OF THE POST.
P. O. Box 245, Vienna, Va.
Phone Vienna, 64.

A five-year sentence was imposed yesterday by Judge Howard W. Smith of the Fairfax County Circuit Court upon Warner Turley, living near Chesterbrook. Turley pleaded guilty to a charge of attack on a 13-year-old girl. Witnesses were heard after the defendant had pleaded guilty. It was the only case heard in the court yesterday.

Judge Smith, holding Chancery Court, granted a divorce to Cora G. Dove from Warrenton G. Dove on the grounds of willful and voluntary desertion. The decree continues from June, 1925, and neither party is to remarry for six months. Virginia Lee Taylor was granted a limited divorce from Robert A. Taylor. The divorce will be absolute at the end of the three-year period. She was awarded custody of their infant son, Robert Lee Taylor. Catherine L. DeWitt was granted a divorce from John A. DeWitt, neither party being permitted to remarry for a six-month period. William C. Criswell was granted an absolute divorce from Blanche Marie Criswell, whom he married in September, 1917, at Greensburg, Pa. Mattie Green Strother was granted a divorce from Alfred C. Strother on the grounds of desertion. Neither party is to remarry for the customary six-month period.

Several divorce suits have been filed and referred to master of commissioners for investigation as to whether the court has jurisdiction.

The clerk of the court was ordered to issue a rule against Thomas Lincoln Mackey, returnable at 10 a. m. January 27, to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court for failure to pay alimony to Elsie Burkeholder Mackey, with counsel fees, as was ordered by the court in its decision November 22, 1929.

The report of Charles Pickett, trustee in the suit of Alice R. Hundley against T. E. Reeves and others, was accepted and the sale of the Chantilly school house lot to Frank O. Dunn and Elizabeth Groscelos Dunn for $2,000 was confirmed.

A committee of the directors of the National Bank of Fairfax, appointed to prepare plans for the new bank building to be erected on the site of the old Fairfax Tavern at Fairfax met with W. I. Demming and R. W. Mitchell, architects of Washington. The committee, composed of Merton E. Ghureb, chairman; Dr. F. M. Brooks, Edgar Littleton, Wilson M. Farr, Dr. Frank W. Huddleson and Dr. Ford Swetnam, decided to recommend the construction of a one-story building to cost about $75,000.

It is planned to construct the building 50 by 80 feet with a setback of 15 feet from the building line on the Lee Highway and Chain Bridge roads. The bank will face the Lee Highway. The walls will be constructed heavy enough to support a second story, making it possible to enlarge the building at any desired time. The building will be of colonial architecture to harmonize with the old historic courthouse across the highway.

The committee will meet January 31 to visit other banks at the various county seats in this vicinity to study their different types and plans.

At present the Arlington Fairfax Railway Co. has certain rights in the building and a quit claim deed will be asked of it at the business meeting next Monday.
